

WE NOMINATE

Marver Hillel Bernstein, a hard-driving Princetonian for the past 18 years and a perceptive specialist in public and educational administration, who this week for the second time in three years appears on TOWN TOPICS' cover. To this 45-year old political scientist, with wide-ranging experience on the state, federal and international levels of government, belongs the high honor of becoming the first Dean of Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, which gives every promise of developing into a graduate professional school in a form perhaps unique in American higher education.

Ever since the dramatic moment in 1961, when President Robert F. Goheen announced that Princeton with the support of an anonymously established $35,000,000 foundation "would aspire to establish professional education for public service at a level of excellence comparable to what has been achieved over the years in the best schools of medicine and law," it has been obvious that the Wilson School would be confronted with rising responsibilities. The pressures of these challenges and the accelerating development of new programs of post-graduate study explain the creation of the deanship to which Bernstein has been elevated on the unanimous recommendation of two committees of experts.

Associate Director of the Woodrow Wilson School since 1962 and a prime mover in shaping exciting programs for careers in public and international affairs, Bernstein (effective July 1, 1964), succeeds economist Gardner Patterson, present Director, who is on leave this year. Just about a year ago, upon completing five years in the post, Patterson asked to be relieved of the directorship in order to return to full-time scholarship and Lester V. Chandler, another economist of the front rank, agreed to serve as Acting Director for a single year. Screening groups were promptly brought into being and it was their emphatic conclusion that the best qualified candidate for dean was Bernstein.

A consultant over the years to any number of Federal agencies, including the Bureau of the Budget and the Economic Stabilization Agency, and widely publicized for his contributions in the early 1950's to the Connecticut Commission on State Government Organizations, Bernstein is the kind of scholar whose knowledge and executive abilities are constantly sought by government and professional associations. He was, for instance, the lone non-lawyer tapped in 1960 as a member of the Organizing Committee for a permanent President's Conference on Administrative Procedure and twice in the 1950's was called to the Near East as an adviser to Israel's Office of the State Controller.

Bernstein, among whose publications are "The Job of the Federal Executive," "The Politics of Israel" and "American Democracy in Theory and Practice," the last a top-notch college text in American Government, helped make headlines in 1960 as Associate Staff Director of a "task force" sponsored by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York and concerned with "Federal Conflict of Interest Laws." This special committee called for a "thorough-going reconstruction of existing laws" — a program seeking balance between the country's need for protection against conflicts of interest and its crying need for high-talent personnel.

For his deep concern for the education of those on the threshold of policy-making responsibilities in public affairs; for his out-reach and imagination in helping mold programs as significant as the opportunities the Wilson School is now offering Federal Officials in Mid-Career; he is our nominee as

HOW CAN I HELP?

Volunteer Center is Ready. "There is simply no end to the opportunities to serve in the Princeton community," Mrs. Edgar M. Gemmell remarked this week, as she dusted off the desk that will serve as nerve center for the new Volunteer Center.

Ready to open Monday at 4 Green Street (hours: 10-12 Monday through Friday, telephone 924-5872), the Volunteer Center was started by Mrs. Gemmell because she thought it would be a good idea someone brought together the agency in desperate need of volunteer help and the idle pair of hands eager to turn a good deed.

The new Center is being launched with the blessings and the $50 check of the Council of Community Services. From there, it will be supported entirely by the United Fund, which will buy stamps, pay the phone bill, order the filing cards and offer continuing thanks.

Volunteers who go to the Center (it's in the United Fund offices) will fill out a biography, and will indicate the kind of work they would like to do, how much time they can give.

The Center will give them reports on all agencies that might be of interest with descriptions of specific jobs. Then, the staff will arrange appointments for interviews if asked to do so.

"We are not a professional employment service," Mrs. Gemmell points out, "and we will not judge applicants. We just give out the information and set up the interviews. It's up to the agencies to decide which volunteers they want."

Who Needs Me? Well, what volunteers do agencies want? What kind of help can the Princeton volunteer give?

The list is limitless, the opportunities as wide as the horizon. For one thing, everyone is needed. Not only the woman who spends her time playing bridge, but the man who commutes, the teenager who attends high school, the elderly couple who has just retired.

VOLUNTEERS TO AID VOLUNTEERS: Mrs. Edgar M. Gemmell (right) is the founder of a new Princeton agency, the Volunteer Center, which will open at 4 Green Street Monday. Her associate is Mrs. John Hite, who will serve on the office staff. Want to volunteer? See "This Is Princeton."

the semi-invalid who has been to think there is no place for him in the world.

The State Home for Girls in Trenton has an imaginative director who is eager for volunteers to run her various projects. She needs costumes and props for the little plays the girls put on, and someone to serve as stage manager and costumer.

Several girls are musical; who will organize a singing group? Some girls would love to learn.

The Home has a rural setting, who will run a nature project? ballet, or any kind of dancing: who will teach them? Who, as a matter of plain, unskilled fact, will go to the State Home and organize small parties for the girls -- just a cake and simple favors?

No Skill Needed. A mental hospital has Bingo games for its patients. The nature of the participants being what it is, everybody has to win a prize. Who will assemble these prizes and make sure there are enough to go around?

Every agency, almost without exception, needs a group of volunteers who will undertake a telephone campaign, staff envelopes, lick stamps, write thank-you notes. Very often, these are short-term jobs which can be done by anyone with the will and a few spare days at home; perhaps mother confined with a sick child.

And these are also jobs which do not require skill.

"So many people are much too modest," Mrs. Gemmell declares. "They want to do something, but they don't think they have any talent or ability, never realizing how much they probably do have to offer."

For example, anyone who takes people can be what Mrs. Gemmell calls "a friendly visitor"; that is, someone who will take an interest in a lonely, neglected or, in some cases, abandoned person, and by chatting with him, give him the idea that somebody cares what happens to him.

But Some Need Skill. Volunteers with precise skills are in demand, naturally. The Princeton Housing Group, now part of PAIR, needs men with financial experience who can work out a budget with young couples, showing them how much to spend for a house, how to finance it, and so on.

Other agencies -- in fact, most of them at one time or another -- need the advertising man's specialized skill in layout for a fund-raising brochure. Good for the man who wants a one-time assignment, perhaps. Older men are needed for administrative work in the Boy Scouts. The YWCA almost always needs teachers for every subject under the sun, bridge, flower arranging, French cooking, guitar.

Teachers with specialties are also welcome at the Princeton Study Center, where tutoring the young in algebra, English or the arcane subtleties of SATS math goes on each evening.

Young people themselves are in demand, too. The newly-licensed teenage driver can

This Is Princeton

Princeton's Volunteer Center may well serve as a seed-bed for new ideas. The Youth Employment Service, the Princeton Study Center and the new teen-age Den were once germinal ideas in the minds of Princeton residents. With an organization like the Volunteer Center close at hand, a man or woman with an idea will have a place to start and a file of volunteers ready to go.

The Center hopes very much that this will happen. It is also ready to talk to any group that wants a project, but doesn't know what the needs are, or where its own interests can fit in best. Princeton will recall that members of Kiwanis decided to sponsor the Homemakers because they realized the need for such a service.

Princeton's men, women and young people, over-committed to too many organizations, may groan at the thought of still more commitments.

But how about a new outlook? — making sandwiches, perhaps, for an organization you've never explored before; looking in on the out-of-town agencies that serve Princeton people; the Trenton Home for Girls, the summer camp for retarded children in Trenton, the Neuropsychiatric Institute; reading aloud, alone and on your own time, for recording for the blind. Any one of these can enlarge a personal horizon and contribute significantly to someone else's need.

The Volunteer Center will, of course be staffed by volunteers. Mrs. Howard Fox has supervised the organization of the office.

The staff will consist of Mrs. John Andresen, Mrs. Robert H. Bierman, Mrs. Marvin Blumenthal, Mrs. Max Rogers, Mrs. John Hite, Mrs. J. Russell O'Brien, Mrs. Arno J. Mayer, Mrs. Herbert S. Ruben, Mrs. William H. Walker III, Mrs. Lucille Wilmerding II and the director, Mrs. Sidney Blavitt.

STEVENSON SPEAKS
To Overflow Crowd. One of the longest and warmest ovations on record in Princeton marked the visit of Adlai Stevenson to Alexander Hall on Monday night.

The United States' Ambassador to the United Nations came to Princeton because he wanted to give here the Dag Hammarskjöld Memorial Lecture. Each participant in the memorial lecture series delivers his address at a university of his choice in his own country. Ambassador Stevenson was graduated from Princeton with the class of 1922.

In his speech, reported by the New York Times on its front page and commented upon editorially. Ambassador Stevenson urged men to abandon the idea of a world divided into "good guys and bad guys," and to see instead a world "in which the myth of monolithic blocs is giving way to a bewildering diversity among nations."

Ambassador Stevenson also urged the expansion and improvement of the peace-keeping machinery of the United Nations, and the establishment of a UN International Police Force, trained specifically for the keeping of the peace.

"The only sane policy for America," Ambassador Stevenson said, "lies in the patient, unspectacular and if need be, lonely search for the interests which unite the nations, and for the strengthening of what we have already built inside and outside the United Nations — for the elaboration of the further needs and institutions of a changing world for a stable, working society."

Ambassador Stevenson remained in Princeton to attend the Whig-Clio 190th anniversary banquet on Tuesday night and to receive the Whig-Clio James Madison Award.

Round-Up

The oddities created by the two Princeton municipalities existing within one Princeton community were never more amusingly illustrated than on Thursday at the Princeton Inn . . . a painting of George Washington, hanging in the room just off the Inn's rear terrace, was stolen and Borough police were investigating the theft. . . just a few feet away in the same room, a painting of Thomas Jefferson had been stolen, and Township police were investigating.

The gummuck is that the Borough-Township line runs smack through the room in which the paintings were hanging, and one was on each side of the municipal boundary. . . said Borough Chief Peter J. McCrohan, after estimating that some dormitory room may now be graced with a 29x31-inch painting of G. Washington. "You'll have to ask Township Police how they are making out with Thomas Jefferson."

Parcel Post rates go up next Wednesday, April 1, (no fooling) and Acting Postmaster John L. DiIwirth reports that the increase will average 13% . . . in terms of a six-pound parcel mailed for delivery in the zone nearest Princeton, the charge will now be 37 cents rather than 22 . . . however, the nickels and comparable amounts spent for longer shipments figure to reduce the drain on the Federal treasury by $100 million.

Mr. DiIwirth also asks that all Princeton residents mailing their Federal tax returns to Newark add their ZIP code number: 08540 . . . the ZIP for Newark is 07102, and that is Newark, and not Camden, this year.

Saturday night's snow was close to five inches in this area, the Weather Man taking no note of the fact that it was the second day of spring but making amends by melting virtually all of the white stuff by Tuesday.

Winter bowed out with a flurry of below-freezing temperature readings. . . six straight days last week under 32. Thursday's thermometer dipping all the way to 19 in outlying areas where the wind gusts badly.

That teenager who has been potting away with an air rifle at car windshields in the Prince Chevrolet lot on North Harrison Street hit a brand new car last week that had just been delivered. . . replacement for the windshield is estimated at well in excess of $100.

Another teenager is suspected as the culprit who has been repeatedly ripping out the telephone from the police and fire call box at Jefferson and Franklin. . . Borough police report the offender is undergoing psychiatric treatment but they feel stronger measures should be initiated.

And more dirty work: cars parked on Broadwood owned by Mrs. Alexander Leitch at 106 and David P. Billington at 409 were sprayed with black paint during the night on Friday. . . "stop" signs in the area received same treatment spray paint dries quickly and defies removal.

The shuttle to Princeton Junction was disabled Friday when the transformer on one of the three cars caught fire . . . an engine from Mercer Co. No 3 took care of the blaze, but rail service was disrupted from 6:45 to 8:15 p.m.

Was the death sentence imposed on Jack Ruby for killing Henry Lee Oswald in Dallas too severe? Your fellow Princetonians give their opinions in Question of the Week (page 19). . . June brides are making their plans to go to the altar, and nearly a dozen engagements are reported on page 21.

A preview of spring sports at the high school and university features the sports pages 26 to 31, but fencing, football, squash and bowling are also in the news. . . so is Bill Bradley, whose Saturday appearance on television will have hundreds of Princetonians watching.

As it has been in recent weeks, Mailbox is jammed full of letters to the Editor. . . subjects range from an announcement of the first meeting to form a committee to prevent further drownings in Carnegie Lake, to comments on music and on architecture on the Princeton scene, to last week's lead story in TOWN TOPICS on PAHIT, to proper animal care. It all starts on page 17.

With last week's five-inch snowfall hopefully the last of the white stuff, man (and bird) can now concentrate on the green stuff.

It'll come slowly, aided now and then by showers — which are part of the forecast for both Thursday and Saturday. Easter will be fair and mild; temperatures through Sunday are expected to be a few degrees above the normal of 45 for this time of year.

McCartor, the Community Players' current attraction and the French company which entranced its audience Tuesday night are in the theatre section beginning on page 5. . . UN Ambassador Stevenson's address here Monday night is reported in Topics of the Town, as are action by both the Borough and Township Boards of Education and progress of fundraising activities to send the High School Choir to Europe this summer.

If the hole in the tank had been larger, 3800 gallons of tar might have covered the foot of Bayard Lane Tuesday afternoon. . . the second half of a tractor-trailer became unhinged, turned over and a hole was punctured in the tank containing the tar.

About 20 feet of hedge was ripped up, some of the tar drained into Township sewers and traffic was disrupted. . . no injuries.

The proposals which resulted in an end to the Public Service bus strike, affecting a million New Jersey riders, were hammered out at a six-hour session that began Sunday evening at the Nassau Inn. . . Governor Hughes and Labor Commissioner Raymond Male played a principal part.

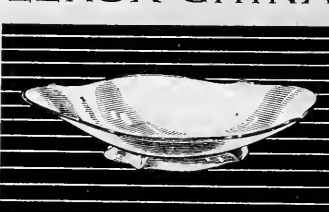

Included among the classified ads this week (pages 33 to 47) is one offering a car for sale and another by the car's owner seeking to sell his garage. . . unanswered question will be: he sell the garage even if he still has the car in his hands?

News Of The THEATRES

"RICHARD III" OPENS Fourth for McCarter. The turn of the season brings Mc-Carter Theatre to the fourth in its series of five Shakespeare plays, to be offered in repertory as a how toward the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth.

The new offering is "Richard III," a change of pace from the two tragedies "Othello" and "Romeo and Juliet" and the single comedy ("Taming of the Shrew") which Mc-
Carter has presented so far.

In a season which some Mc-Carter subscribers have referred to as "the winter of our discontent," this production of "Richard" may not be as glorious summer, but it will do for early spring. It succeeds, in its modest way, because it achieves what it sets out to do, and that it to entertain.

Edward Earle, the director, is apparently trying his skill at Shakespeare for the first time, so far as we can tell from his official biography. He is a choreographer, as well as director, and his chief assignment this season at McCarter has been to supervise all the dance and fight scenes in

RICHARD CROOKBACK: Thomas Barbour wears the make-up of Richard, Duke of Gloucester, become Richard III in his own malevolent hand, Shakespeare's chronicle is the fourth in McCarter's current Shakespeare series.

Shakespeare's McCarter Five.

Spectacular. He has decided to stage this "Richard III" as a spectacle. He gives us four on a stage, beheadings, so crunchingly realistic that in at least one case, you expect the head to fall in your lap.
And there is, of course, the smothering of the little prince in the tower and the Duke of Clarence's marination in a barrel of wine.

And then, to all this, Mr.
Earle has added a perfectly splendid coronation scene, with the pomp parading right down the very aisles of Mc-Carter, and a really first-rate battle of Bosworth Field with some of the best of stage recorded battle sounds we've ever heard, and plenty of smoke on the McCarter stage to provide verisimilitude and some intricate lighting which casts the shadows of fighting warriors on the side walls of the auditorium itself. Very effective. To say nothing of the thrust scene, with the Duke of Buckingham's head illuminated from below — enough to scare poor Richard right off Bosworth Field altogether.

It is great fun to watch really it is, theatrical and is the best possible way for a director of Mr. Earle's back.

What you will miss, of course, is depth. You will not find any real attempt to understand the inner structure and peculiar motivations of Shakespeare's most villainous villain nor indeed, any profound sense of the tragedy implicit in all the gore. Sometimes it seems almost like Grand Guignol.

End of the War. It is with
"Richard III" you will recall, that Shakespeare brings to a close his War of the Roses.
When the play opens, Henry VI of the House of Lancaster and his son, have been slain in battle and the Yorkish Edward IV, elder brother to Richard, is on the throne.
The machinations of Richard Crookback, deformed in body and spirit for so Shakespeare would have us think, to gain the throne and keep it,
and his final loss of it at Bosworth Field to the youth who will be Henry VII, occupy this single-minded drama.

The play hinges and swings almost solely on the character of Richard, and for this production, McCarter has a Richard — Thomas Barbour who does a thoroughly credible and commendable job. Mr. Barbour is not Olivier or Guinness, but he is not a scene-chewing ham, either.

He knows where the witty lines are and he knows how to read them with an oily tongue. In fact, he really seems to enjoy the savor and flavor of Shakespeare's words, and he does not, as a rule, have to rush with that jet pace that has characterized McCarter's approach to Shakespeare so far this season. He has worked out gestures and facial mannerisms — just enough of them — to fill in his portrait of a wily and wicked man, and we think you will enjoy watching him in the role.

The Cast. Two actors, Clarence Felder, and Jale Chobanian, serve to remind us that it is one of the pleasures of repertory to observe an actor in varied parts. Mr. Felder, the fat clown of "Romeo" and "Sweeney," met an ill-mannered audience laughter when he appeared on stage as Lord Hastings, so accustomed were the subscribers to seeing his comic mask. But his Hastings is perfectly straight-forward; he has left Lou Costello behind.

Mr. Chobanian, the lispng servant of "Sweeney," plays Earl Rivers — not a very demanding part — to be sure, but one which he handles with the easy capability of the pro.

The Duke of Buckingham, insinuating and veal, is the kind of personality Mario Siletti has always done extremely well, and he so again. Angela D'Ambrosia turns from Juliet and Desdemona to the mature role of Queen Elizabeth, and brings to it a fine and high-spirited haughtiness. Ruby Holbrook seems only shrill as the demure Queen Margaret, whose curses fall due, one by one.

This "Richard," then, is a show, an entertainment. Its weakness may be said to lie in its lack of depth, but since it makes no attempt to go down deep, one can only shrug. The company comes across quite well, as we have indicated above, although there are frequent discords from the players with only one or two lines to say. Sometimes these sound like high-school freshmen.

Lighting and costumes are appropriately theatrical. That battle scene is well done, but on the whole, the sound effects are loud and distracting. A Christmas carol or two, nicely placed, and some historically accurate music are welcome diversions, but there is a lot of clanging that sounds as though someone dropped a piano.

OTHER PLAYERS in Princeton will run your classified advertising for half price, or free of charge if your for sale ads don't sell. IN TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads, and better results.

"GRASS HARP" IN TUNE
Players In Good Show. "The Grass Harp," Truman Capote's first play, which opened in New York just 12 years ago for a month's run, is the season's second success by the Princeton Community Players. Which means the Players this year have a 1,000 batting average — Brecht's "The Caucasian Chalk Circle" was their first, and a superior job it was. "The Grass Harp" makes it two for two.

Of course, "The Grass Harp" is an entirely different kind of play from "Chalk Circle." As such, it is a more than worthy demonstration of the Players' talent and versatility. And of their dedication to the belief that community theaters can and should be much more than just avocational therapy for a few.

"The Grass Harp," which Mr. Capote dramatized from one of his autobiographical novellas, is a beautiful play. It gives full evidence of Mr. Capote's essential goodness and sensitive perceptiveness. It has humor, lightness and grace and is filled with poetry — and, not least of all, curious wisdom. The Players, under the skillful, resourceful direction of fellow-member Garrison Ellis, do "The Grass Harp" with delicacy and affection.

Split-Level Treehouse. The story, an idyll, is a relatively uncomplicated one. A magnificent Negro mammy, an appealingly ingenious youth and a warm-hearted spinster feel that they have been virtually ousted from the home they have shared with the spinster's virgine sister. Their solution: to go live in a treehouse which the boy, Colin Talbo, has built deep within a nearby forest. The first part of the play may seem deceptive — that all Mr. Capote has written is original, off-beat situation comedy. But, as the theme develops, it becomes increasingly clear that the writer has much more than just quaint, whimsical fun in store. The gentle moral might be described as "the pure in heart, like the meek, will inherit the earth, and that doesn't mean they'll end up with nothing but a mouthful of clay, either."

"The Grass Harp's" purpose is to show, and this it does quietly but believably, that people of independent spirit

IT'S NEW To Us

IT'S ANTIQUE TIME

For Wellesley Club. Twenty-six dealers from Maine to Pennsylvania will converge on Princeton next week to lay out their wares before visitors to the fifth annual Antiques Show and Sale of the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey.

The show, which will benefit the May Margaret Fine Scholarship Fund and will support faculty salary increases at Wellesley, will be held Wednesday and Thursday from noon to 6 and Friday from noon to 6 at Princeton Country Day School, Broadmead. Luncheon, at $1.50 will be served from noon to 1:30 and tea from 3 to 4:30. Admission to the show is $1.

Now, with vital statistics out of the way, we'll get on with the show itself. Dealers never know until the last minute what they'll be able to bring along, so our list cannot be specific in every case; however, we can at least tell you what kinds of dealers will be present.

We think you'll be especially interested in the collection of scrimshaw that will be brought to Princeton by Drury at Rice of Wiscasset, Maine. Scrimshaw, of course, is design-work scratched into the surface of whale's teeth by whaling sailors who were, so to speak, whittling away their time. Drury at Rice will also bring primitives, old pottery and some furniture.

Those of you who read a recent article about Kitchen and Hearth, Pierpont Street, Brooklyn, will want to examine their old copper molds, old kitchen furniture and utensils made of iron and brass. And for a really fascinating kitchen piece, there will be a pricked tin Pennsylvania Dutch pie cupboard from Antiques on Peaceable Street in South Salem, New York. Nobody seems quite sure what a pricked tin pie cupboard is, but there's an easy way to find out.

Another interesting Pennsylvania Dutch item will come from The Carousel in New York. It's an iron flower holder, with six heart-motif skewers, all in very good condition, we understand.

For the formalists, Dorchester House in New Hope will show formal furniture pieces, fine china, lamps and old mirrors and Mary Rich DeWaters of Staten Island will show her collection of exquisite glass paper-weights and old porcelain boxes.

All for Wellesley

Memorabilia of Wellesley College's first 25 years — from 1875 to 1900 — will be on display at the Wellesley Antique Show.

The show will be held next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at Princeton Country Day School, Broadmead.

Scrapbooks handed down through the generations and maybe even grandmothers', pictures, programs and maps from many generations will all be on view. Lists of housekeeping duties for students, for example, and a posting of the limited hours when men were allowed on campus — CAMPUS, if you please. The idea of having them in rooms . . . well!

Katherine Wiley of Morris-town has promised a Hogswill white chest (1790) and a small pine desk, and River Edge has a pair of Antiques in North Branch has decided on a pine schoolmaster desk and other country pieces.

David Clare, the clock man on Carter Road, will display grandfather clocks, an 18th-century hutch and two hand-woven coverlets from the Pennsylvania Dutch country. There are more, of course, including several charming things for and about children — mugs from James Abbe Jr., books from Parksdales in Buffalo, New York and toys from the Carousel.

CLEAN, SPRING LINE

In Classic Suits. The unadorned, unembellished line has been used for the pleasingly simple suits at Landau's this spring. Except for one with box-pleats, the skirts are straight. Jackets differing in small detail, but all of them are serene and clean.

Boxpleats go around a dæron and cotton skirt of deep sand, topped by a snug, but not fitted, jacket with self buttons. It's for juniors, $14.98.

Straight skirts begin with a green whose trim jacket, without a collar, is marked only by a grosgrain band. A steel blue turns to the narrow lapel for a very tailored jacket closed with four brass buttons. Price: $12.98. Deep claret, unusual for spring, makes another suit with narrow lapels in the junior range.

A very deep apple green suit, just the color of new spring leaves, has an overblouse of ivory with apple green dots.

If you're B-Tween (that is, five-five or under), Landau suggests Berkshire's grey-green suit woven like a soft tweed and finished with red neck and self buttons, for $14.98.

With any of these, or with a separate skirt, you might wear the strict Lady van Heusen white shirt with its executive air, or the soft little yellow short-sleeved blouse with its gentle neck bow. A pink sleeveless shell, or a pink-white candy-stripe with a neck that turns turtle? Buy them both!

Blouses have drama, too, besides femininity and efficiency. A silk-like rayon is white with shaggy, bold-back — well, this season of the year they look like Easter eggs. Sleeves are three-quarter, and the neck has that big 1964 bow. Blouses at Landau's are $9.98 to $7.98. For a spring coat, the shop offers two very serious models: one a easy Chesterfield with bankers stripes that show you have a friend at Chase Manhattan. Another is finely-woven grey "tweed" with a half-inch of black braid that goes all the way around and serves in place of a collar. Both are all-purpose coats, laminated against the spring breezes. Prices on all Landau coats are about $25-$30.

Madras is back in town. If it ever left. How about a shirt with smoking across the top, either sleeveless, or designed for the demure, with long sleeves?

And demure! Look at this striped shirt, to wear as a nightshirt over a pair of lamiae shorts! The shirt has a bare — now, wait, and don't jump to conclusions — it has a bare light bulb printed on the pocket, to light your way to bed.

You won't need a light if you wear the roostered night shirt with little roosters crowing all over it. Bet they keep you awake.

Mr. Landau asks us to remind you that, although he opens boxes of new things for springs, he still has those old standbys, the dungaree shorts and slacks, sizes 8-18, and the Oxford button-downs. For ever and ever.

BEHIND THE CLOWN

Es . . . Wh? Viedt's has not given up being a chocolate shop, but it has acquired for a few weeks a display of oils — six, in fact — showing a varied dozen clowns. Each is about 18 by 24.

At first glance, of course, you do see a clown face in traditional make-up and costume. As you look, between sips of Viedt's coffee, you see a face behind the clown. Quite a trick, quite a trick.

Here, suddenly, is Khushchev under the red wig There's Crosby and his old friend, Chevalier. Nixon is easy. So is Adam Stevenson.

But can you find Eugene O'Rand? Robert Kennedy? Eisenhower? Try your luck.

The painter is Peter Boruta of Trenton, who has brought his paintings to Viedt's for both display and sale. If you're interested in purchase, ask at Viedt's for details.

 tion, Geri Bryan as Catherine Creek, the "Indian" Negro housekeeper, is super; Joylon Sproyles, Princeton undergraduate, does the part of Col. Talbot with guileless sensitivity and skill, and Shirley Kauffman (as the tenderhearted, dispossessed sister) is fine. Others, with small roles but large ability, include Tom Schmitz as the Reverend and Thomas Queenan as the Barber.

"The Grass Harp" will be repeated at Murray the next two Friday and Saturday nights. It's good theater, and you should go see it.

TWAIN RE-CREATED

In Holbrook "Lecture." In 1935-36, Mark Twain made an around-the-world lecture tour which earned him the unofficial title, "America's Court Jester." Hal Holbrook in his "Mark Twain Tonight," re-creates these platform lectures in one-man tour de force which has played over 300 cities since its premiere in 1959.

"Mark Twain Tonight" will come to McCarter Theatre in a repeat engagement Monday at 8:30. Tickets are available at the McCarter box-office.

To re-create Mark Twain, Mr. Holbrook uses make-up, wig and costume that revive the famous author to an unusual degree. Every word Mr. Holbrook speaks is Twain's and every gesture is authentic, according to those who knew the humorist or attended one of his lectures.

HERE IT COMES!

"Showboat" on the Way. More than 100 players are rehearsing these days for the Kern-Hammerstein "Showboat" that will come to McCarter Theatre for four performances starting April 30.

"Showboat" is the fourth annual spring production of the FJ&B players, a group of dedicated, zealous and frequently even talented, Princeton residents (and their neighbors) talent from surrounding areas came to the tryouts, too.)

Milton Lyon, director of "Showboat," has a cast almost twice as large as any he has directed for previous FJ&B productions "Guys and Dolls," "Anything Goes" and "Gypsy" and the musical may even set a record for the total number of people onstage in any single production, amateur or professional.

Casting for the dozen or so major roles will be announced shortly.

PRINCE AND PLAYHOUSE

Seven Days in May (through Saturday) is one of those infrequent movie phenomena by which a C-minus fiction-thriller, although or therefore a very best seller, is artfully transmogrified into an A-plus motion picture. Sure, it's still an about thriller but it has something of importance to say, and says it with vigorous conviction, utter believability and unrelenting suspense.

Don't let that phrase "something of importance to say" mislead you. "Seven Days" is no mere movie-with-a-message which is cinematalk for "no action, all talky-talk."

This is an absorbing, well written, well acted, exciting drama. An improbable plot—conspiracy by the U. S. military to overthrow our government—will leave you, at movie's end, thinking that such an event, if not probable, is at least possible.

The cast is astronomically starred: Burt Lancaster, Kirk Douglas, Frederick March, Edmond O'Brien, Martin Balsam and Ava Gardner. "Seven Days" is frighteningly realistic, but absorbing and, equally sobering. See it.

PRINCE

Sunday in New York (starts Sunday) is another in the ever-growing collection of slight, bright bits of vanity-comedy about a man (Rod Taylor) who wants to play sexual house-scat with a possibly complaisant companion (Jane Fonda). The ads for "Sunday" trumpet "This movie is dedicated to the proposition that every girl gets . . . sooner or later."

yearning than statistical accuracy that she must be "the only 22-year-old virgin alive," turns out to be complaisant that's for sure. But it's all in good, somewhat unclean fun. "Sunday" racks up skill points on its style. Manhattan has never looked better — and neither has Jane Fonda. The gags are all neatly interpolated and quite frequently amusing. An unblushing and edge-of-bawdiness comedy, "Sunday" is fast and funny, dedicated though it really is to the proposition that an un-maid head is an excess piece of furniture in any New York apartment, especially on weekends. For "Playboy" subscribers.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Captain Newman, M.D. (starts Sunday) is a refutation of the Napoleonic bromide, "An army travels on its stomach." This one updates it: "An army travels on its psychiatrist's couch." And Greg Peck is the man who tries to prove it as Dr. Newman. Air Force psycho-straightener, with his combat-ready sodium pentothal stinger for shock-up fly-boys.

"Captain Newman, M.D." (or "Lion in a Funny Face") misses because of its own paranoid schizophrenia: psychosis can be fun, a catatonic is somehow comic and, as for war and death — well, they're nothing to be afraid of. And wooden Gregory Peck, to quote one contemporary, makes Newman a hickory doc.

The picture has its moments. But it also has such embarrassingly Funny scriptures as "Whaddya mean, is psychiatry worth bothering with? One of these men may become another Eisenhower." Leo Rosten's book, same title, was fine in its transfer to the screen, however, it got something less than an Honorable Discharge.

GARDEN

A Tiger Walks (through Tuesday) will please the young but will leave their elders pretty cold. It's a Disney live-action job about (what else?) a tiger on the loose — but a strangely lovable brute which gets its kicks by chomping only on baddies and one which would never even snarl at a dog, provided it was a goodie.

The moral of the story is somewhat confusing. A savage Bengal tiger is, Disney-like, supposed to be the object of sympathy and affection, while the frightened community it keeps buffaloed (or, in this instance, ligured) is the object designed to produce audience antagonism.

Good direction by Norman Tokay and skillful editing by Grant K. Smith maintain a satisfactory element of suspense when the camera is zoomed in on the tiger. Not so when the villagers, more to be pitied than censured, are on screen. Okay for kids, but adults will probably prefer the actions of the student-tiger in Palmer Stadium to this one.

New! The Theatres

THE NEW STRAND
Shakespeare in April. The New Strand in Lambertville will devote virtually the entire month of April to films adapted from the plays of William Shakespeare. They are: "Richard III," "Othello," "Henry V," "Hamlet" (two versions), "Macbeth," "Twelfth Night" and "The Taming of the Shrew."

Classical Greek drama will be represented by three films: "Oedipus Rex," "Electra" and "Antigone." "Volpone," by Shakespeare's friend and contemporary, Ben Jonson, will also be shown in April, as well as Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night." Other special April film showings at The New Strand: "The Titan," a documentary about Michelangelo, "The Phantom of the Opera" and a special Shakespeare birthday program of five documentaries.

Three live shows are also on the books for next month at The New Strand. They are The New Strangers (a jazz comedy), The British Family Puppets, and the Princeton Community Players in three one-act plays by Shaw, Chekhov and Tennessee Williams. A complete schedule for the month will be sent on request made to The New Strand, Lambertville.

BRAVO!
French Actors Here. France's premier theatre company showed Princeton on Tuesday night what the word "premier" really means.

Thus truly flawless company, the Theatre de France, "first" in every sense of the word, presented to a standing-room audience in McCarter Theatre the timeless Beaumarchais comedy, "Le Mariage de Figaro."

On View

Chancellor Greece Student Center: Paintings and drawings from the U. S. Navy Combat Art Collection. University campus, through Saturday.

New Architectural Building: Picasso prints, lithographs, posters, and original ceramic pieces; auspices The Arts of Princeton Committee, University campus, 9-5 daily, through April 10.

Gallery 100: Group Show —original graphics by Friedlander, Peterdi, R. A. Smith, Worden Day, Azuma and Baskin. 100 Nassau Street, through April 11.

Firestone Library: "Five Shakespearean Plays through Four Centuries." Exhibition Gallery, main floor: "Prints from the Art Museum and Graphic Arts Collection." Graphic Arts, second floor: "Scene and Costume Designs." Theatre Collection, second floor. Hours: Monday through Saturday, 9-6; Sunday 2-5 p.m.

Whig Hall: "Photographs of the Berlin Wall," prepared by U. S. Information Agency, University campus, through Sunday.

What an exciting theatrical experience it is to watch these talented and supple actors at work! Trained, honed, polished to a degree of excellence most actors merely dream about, they make each gesture, each turn on a little finger, each movement of an eye with conscious and yet effortless effect. Their "Figaro" is incredibly effervescent, humming with the brilliance of vintage champagne. Before a stunning succession of sets, they play out the familiar comedy of Figaro, valet to the Count Almaviva, and his witty maneuvers to prevent the Count from enjoying the traditional "droit du seigneur" with Figaro's fiancée, Suzanne.

Title Role Demanding. Jean Desailly, in the demanding role of Figaro, combines action and speech with such success that he drew a burst of applause from the McCarter audience following his soliloquy in the final scene. His Suzanne is Simone Valere, a charmingly vivacious blonde who makes the Count's desires seem quite reasonable indeed.

Jean-Louis Barrault, founder of the Theatre de France, plays the Count, and his wife, Madeleine Renaud, is the Countess. They are actors in the classic tradition of the French theatre, as adroit with the comically arched eyebrow as they are with the lovelorn sigh. It is a cool style of acting, perhaps almost too stylized for modern tastes, but it is exquisite in this context.

As ballast, of course, they have Robert Lombard as Antonio the gardener, one of the best drunks we have ever seen, and a succulent little Fanchette, played by Dominique Arden.

School Calendar Set

The 1964-65 school calendar has been approved by the Borough Board of Education.

School opens Wednesday, September 9.

Thanksgiving recess: 12:30 p.m. November 25 to November 30.

Christmas vacation: 3:30 p.m. December 23 to January 3, inclusive.

The winter recess: February 22-26 inclusive, and School closes June 23, 1965.

One of the pleasures of the Theatre de France is the competence of minor members of the cast. A footman may deliver one line, but he delivers it with competence and skill. An actor like Michel Bertay, as Double-Main the registrar, may have only a list to read, but he does it memorably.

And the skill of these people is such that one may watch and listen and laugh even though one is not fluent in French. It is an art, almost like music, transcending language.

Sets Are Lovely. In this production of "Figaro," the actors move in an ambience which is inspiring in itself. Yves St. Laurent has designed costumes in the pastel spectrum, achieving weight through steel grey and terra-cotta brown.

The sets, by Pierre Delbecq, are incredibly imaginative and lovely, with oyster grey hangings in looping arcades around the stage, delicate chandeliers, against black velvet and spare but graceful 18th-century furniture.

It is, as one critic has already said, an impeccable presentation, and Princeton must be grateful to the McCarter management for arranging its appearance.

Just to show what kind of spell the company cast on Tuesday night—a young man, flustered perhaps by the foal rendezvous scene for which Suzanne and the Countess exchange costumes, rushed to the stage after one of the many curtain calls, and presented a bouquet of roses, intended for Mme. Renaud, to Mme. Valery.

ing that the support pledged by choir families "demonstrates the enthusiasm of the parents for a project which reflects credit upon the Choir, the school and the community."

He added that State Department support was not forthcoming this year, whereas $10,000 was granted in 1962 for the Choir's tour. Official government approval was been given.

THE "DISADVANTAGED"

Township Program Set. The "disadvantaged child" — the one who comes from a home in which learning is not highly regarded — will be the focus of a new program to start in the Township schools this summer. Dr. John McKenna, a superintendent of schools, told the School Board at its meeting Thursday night that details will probably be ready by the end of April.

"We say 'disadvantaged,'" Dr. McKenna explained, "but actually these kids are leagues ahead of the really disadvantaged ones in New York or Washington, D. C. We call it a "relative lag," because compared to other boys and girls in their grade, these are lagging behind."

The new program will spot these children in kindergarten and, hopefully, bring them up to the level of their peers in first grade. It is essential to catch them early, Dr. McKenna explained, because it is in first grade that frustration begins and hinders.

"Most parents have a high aspiration level for their children," Dr. McKenna said. "If they haven't — if they don't bother reading to a child when he's little, or providing a home atmosphere where school is regarded as important, then the child sees himself starting behind the rest of the class, and he loses motivation."

Teachers Named. Twelve new teachers were appointed to the Township staff on Thursday night.

"The Township is beginning to develop a reputation in education circles," Dr. McKenna told the Board, in describing his recruiting procedures for new teachers. "Our system lets teachers have their head, and allows them to work in newer approaches to education, and this helps in recruiting. We're competitive with some of the best systems in the east, salary-wise, although we're not on a level with some communities in Westchester or Long Island, of course. And we really recruit — we go out after them, especially the good ones."

Lack of senior high school teaching opportunity and the high cost of living in Princeton are the chief problems faced by the Township in recruiting, Dr. McKenna told the Board.

Twelve teachers were recommended for tenure "without reservation." They are: Miss Lene Alston, James Barnes, Kenneth Bowers, Joseph Diefenbach, Miss Virginia Euell, Miss Lora Haus, Mrs. Carole Messersmith, Mrs. Martha Montgomery, David Peter, Mrs. Janet Stollenwerf, Miss Sara Schiebert and John Zarz.

Board members decided to write the New Jersey State Assembly regarding a bill which would eliminate the present requirement of retaining five separate contractors to build a school, and allow a board to hire a single contractor instead.

All Done. Construction is finished at Littlebrook, Leonard Hymerling told his fellow board members. He said he found the quality of the work "average." Construction at Riverside is on schedule, Mr. Hymerling said. He suggested a new service road into the Riverside School from Prospect Avenue as a means of improving the appearance of the front of the school.

Report-card forms for primary and intermediate grades are being reviewed, Dr. McKenna announced. "We've about used up the printed ones we had in stock, and we decided to re-evaluate before we ordered new ones printed." The superintendent has been working with a committee of three parents and seven teachers on the project.

The mid-winter vacation, Dr. McKenna said, broke the virus grip, and brought a 30% drop in Township school absences.

PRINTING ON VIEW. At Junior Museum. An exhibit entitled "The Art of Printing" will be on view at the Princeton Junior Museum, through April, until May 30. A display on paper making in TOWN TOPICS illustrated exhibit shows type, zinc plates and mats, as well as the process from notes to a finished story. Complete color reproduction is demonstrated through progressive proofs from woodcuts by Carol Stokard.

In the offset (planographic) display, the Princeton Packet is shown from original to a finished story through negatives and masters. Princeton Printing and Princeton Polychrome Press shows how color offset works and Van Norder has contributed a book display in this department.

Infatigable in color has been contributed by the Herald-Tribune, with plates showing the gravure or etching processes step by step. A small modern press and a Gutenberg type model are included in the exhibit.

YOUTH ADMITS THEFTS At Graduate College. For the second week in a row William Saunders, 19, 12 Berrien Court, has been arrested by Borough police.

Charged with atrocious assault when he stabbed his younger brother last week during an argument and free on $1500 bail, Saunders was arrested a second time Friday and charged with breaking and entering the Graduate College on four separate occasions. He was continued on $1500 bail and will face a preliminary hearing April 13.

Police said their suspicions were aroused when they first arrested Saunders and noticed that he was wearing an expensive $200 wristwatch. Under questioning, Saunders later admitted that he had taken the watch from a room at the Graduate college. From the same room he also admitted taking, police said, four pipes, two rings and a bottle of whiskey.

The pipes, (worth about $25 each) and the rings, Saunders said he threw in a culvert near the Graduate building. As yet police have not been able to locate them and they asked if anyone found them to return them to police headquarters. The pipes are black with a white dot on the stem.

OF DOGS AND SHELTER

At Mayor's Conference, "It was a rewarding and pleasant discussion," said Mayor Frank Patterson, describing at this weekly press conference a meeting between representatives of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League and the two municipalities.

Mayor Patterson said that he and Township Mayor William Wilson, Borough Administrator Robert Mooney and Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini and Borough Councilman William Walker, attended the meeting.

"The most promising solution to the dog shelter problem seems to be construction of a shelter on River Road using money from individuals and the League," Mayor Patterson observed. He said that the question of operating the shelter had not yet been solved.

In another matter involving shelter, Mayor Patterson said that representatives of the Borough, Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton Day Schools and the Swann Estate are getting closer to "buttoning up" the exchange of property that would give the present Miss Fine's School building to the Borough and Borough Hall to the Seminary.

PUBLIC INVITED

On Community Gardens Tour. Everybody in Borough and Township is invited to go on a tour of Community Gardens this Friday at 9:30.

The tour, sponsored by both municipalities, will start in Township Hall in the second floor office of engineer Frank Quinly where maps of Community Gardens will be on display for public inspection. Then, the expedition will fit the road, (wear boots) covering both sides of the Route 206 property where recreation areas will be laid out for the community, starting this spring. The tour is expected to be over by 11 a.m.

Mayor Henry Patterson announced this week that a draft of the agreement setting up a joint Borough-Township recreation board has been completed and is now being circulated among the people who are concerned.

The final enabling ordinance will set up the board, establish the number of people who are to serve on it, outline their powers, specify where money is to come from, and so on.

Mr. Koren is a career Foreign Service Officer who currently is Director of the Office of Southeast Asian Affairs, position he has held since 1962. He is the son of the late William Koren, a Princeton University faculty member for many years, and Mrs. Koren. He is an alumnus of Miss Fine's and the Princeton County Day Schools and graduated from Princeton University in 1933.

Following an early career in banking, Mr. Koren served in the Army during World War II, attaining the rank of colonel. He entered the Foreign Service in 1948, and has served in Haiti, Switzerland and Manila.

At the request of the Secretary of the Army, Mr. Koren was detailed to the Department of the Army for five years beginning in 1953. During this time, he was Chief of Staff of the Allied Staff in Berlin, a member of the Army's General Staff and an executive assistant in the White House.

Who'll Help Santa Claus?

Henry Schultz, 79-year-old himd "Santa Claus" will be the beneficiary of a show to be staged by the Trenton Clown Club. There's just one little catch...

The Club needs a hall or auditorium to perform in, and a group to sell tickets, take care of promotion and see that the benefit is a success.

Any interested group may find out more by writing Walt ("Wobo") Savage, 15 West Front Street, Trenton.

Frederick A. Masterson, 26, 171 Harrison Street, was injured early Sunday morning when his small Volkswagen sedan ran into the rear of a State Highway Department truck on U.S. 1. At the time, 5 a.m., it was snowing and the roads were snow-covered.

Mr. Masterson was treated at Princeton Hospital for lacerations of the head, chest and hands and released. He was charged with careless driving by investigating State Police officers. His damaged car was towed away.

Three Hit Solid Objects. The same Palm Sunday morning at 1:45, Hope C. Carroll, 21, R. D. Princeton, skidded on the Princeton-Kingston road and hit a Public Service pole. The accident happened near the intersection of Riverside East.

She was treated at Princeton Hospital for a laceration to her lip. Her car, also a Volkswagen, was towed away.

Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Juanita H. Goldstrom, 45, 26 Montgomery Road, Rock Hill, was injured when her 1964 sedan left Mount Lucas Road and hit a tree.

Mrs. Goldstrom told Township police that she was trying to avoid a collision with an oncoming car. Her car skidded out of control some 75 feet, hit a tree and continued on another 42 feet before coming to rest. She was not able to describe the other car, police said.

A cat led to the undoing of Charles Goeke, 17, 34 Morgan Place, as he was driving early Friday evening on Mountain Avenue.

After swerving to avoid striking a car in the road, Mr. Goeke told Township police he hit a tree close to the edge of Mountain Avenue and then continued on across the lawn in front of 82 Mountain Avenue.

Mailboxes in front of Nos. 81 and 82 were also damaged. Young Goeke was uninjured and police made no charges. The fender, wheel, hood and headlights of the 1963 station wagon he was driving were damaged.

In addition, $911 has been received from a mail appeal organized by PAIR—Princeton Association for Human Rights—and another $1000 has been collected by a PAIR member.

The student drive was led by Jay Lockard of Princeton High School, who has been working in Greenville, Mississippi, with SNCC—the Student Non-Violent Co-ordinating Committee—in the campaign to register Negro voters in Mississippi.

CROSS BOOKS ON LOAN
Through Junior Museum
The 30-volume collection of science books, in memory of Mrs. Richard J. Cross, is available for two-week loan at home through the Junior Museum in Burlington, N.J.

The service marks the return of books to the old Thompson home after an absence of 20 years.

The Cross collection is being handled by a group of volunteers under Mrs. Enoch J. Durlin and Mrs. Patricia Karkhewer, chairwoman of the program at the Public Library. The book list will be checked out from 1 to 4:30 Saturdays, and 1 to 4 Sundays.

A complete branch library was completed in Thompson House from 1910, when the Public Library was created in the Bannbridge House, until 1935. An alcove in memory of Mr. Cross was discontinued in the Bannbridge House in 1957 because of a shortage of space, and the collection was stored in the Thompson House.

Mrs. Cross lived in Princeton from 1917 to 1929, and the collection was begun with funds from the Nature Club dissolved in 1920. Included in the collection are books on weather, geology, astronomy and botany. The Museum plans to draw further on the Library for displays.

Charles E. Saltman, president of the Union in this country, will speak briefly at the dinner.

HOPEWELL FOLLOWS SUIT
Twenty-four out of 40 students pulled in a recent survey of Princeton young people said they were keenly interested in "a quiet place to study."

Encouraged by this response, several Hopewell residents are now making plans for a study center similar to the one that has been operating successfully in Princeton. The sponsoring group needs a building or at least a room to serve as the center and adults who are willing to serve as the staff.

Tentative plans call for a center which would be in use two nights a week, two hours a night. Tutoring may be available after the center gets underway. Any one interested in serving at the center or providing study materials is asked to call Milton Mayer, 466-1277.

JOB EXAMINATION SET
For Post Office. An examination for openings as clerk and carrier at various post offices will be given Saturday, April 4, at 2 p.m. at Princeton High School. John L. Dildworth, acting postmaster in Princeton, has announced the examination is open to all Princeton residents 18 years and older, although it is only for members of the class of 1964 at the high school.

Mr. Dildworth has appealed for more applications for post office jobs from Princeton residents. Applications may be obtained from Alfred Seitz, assistant principal at the High School, or from the Princeton Post Office.

If from 5000 AB, the application for examination, taken to Trenton by an applicant prior to the April 4 deadline, will be accepted before the 9 a.m. examination time.

Person To Person

A friend asked, "What I should I look for in a used car? You professionals certainly have a formula for judging them." His question is like saying to an artist, "Tell me how to paint a portrait." Just as the portraitist has become accustomed through years of practice, the professional used car appraiser has reached his position in the same way, and he simply cannot put much of it in a few words. As we have said before, the most experienced appraiser occasionally makes a costly mistake. But when we make an error we either "dump," salvage, or invest in rebuilding; we will never knowingly sell such a car to you. As a matter of fact one of our high operating costs every month is in the investing of our used cars to very high standards. We place the highest possible value on your good will, part of which we earn in this way. May we never know your friendship? Meeting on Drownings Set.
To the Editor of Town Topics: The first meeting for a committee to study the "Carnegie Lake Problem" has been scheduled. It will be at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 2, in the library of Valley Road School in Princeton. Everyone interested in seeing something done to prevent more drownings in Carnegie Lake is urged to attend.

The original suggestion advanced in a recent letter to the Editor was for a committee which would examine the merits of various life-savings aids and other improvements. The purpose of the survey of the situation by a citizen's committee would be incorporated into a recommendation which would then be made known publicly, for further action by the Princeton lake front interests.

One especially appealing suggestion is the idea of having life preservers with a length of rope placed upon posts at suitable intervals along the lake shore. The fact such a device has been in use for many years along the Charles River in the Boston-Cambridge area has seemed a strong inducement to the practicality of this proposal to many concerned people during recent private discussions.

The purpose of this meeting will be to give everyone who is not concerned about this matter privately, as an individual, the chance to achieve definite and needed improvements through public action.

Brahms, the Boy Wonder.
To the Editor of Town Topics: Your music critic quoted last week a remark of Goethe regarding the A-minor quartet by Brahms. This strikes me as somewhat baffling! Was that quartet really one of little Johannes' very early works, the pre-atal ones?

I could not possibly assume that a man of Goethe's calibre would pre-judge any composer's work. So, could it have been one of the great old man's posthumous remarks?

Until you put me straight on this problem, I must assume that this was just one of those preposterous incidents which occur to most of us occasionally.

STEPHAN STEINITZ
263 Mt. Lucas Road.
(Editor's note: A drop of midnight oil blurred our critic's pen for a moment. Goethe, of course, was not the man. It was a Brahms biographer named Richard Specht. But just before writing the review, our critic had been reading a letter written by Goethe to Schiller, and when it's late at night . . .)

Three Notable Musicians "Firsts."
To the Editor of Town Topics: So much goes on in Princeton musically that things tend to get lost in the confusion. A coincidence of perhaps historical importance has been the performance here, in the space of a month, of three of the important new musical compositions of our times. First, the new Sessions Symphony by the Philadelphia Orchestra, then the Cone "cellar" sonata by David Wells, and most recently the performance of our Maxwell Davies "Pan-thesis" by the Princeton Symphony.

None of these performances was actually a local premiere, but that was not the point. The point was that all three were very significant works which were performed and heard here, and that all three had close Princeton connections.

Sessions and Cone can certainly be called local, if not native, composers, and Davies, though certainly not a native, is at least a resident. It is hard to imagine that all three of these marvelous works will not come to be looked upon by the future as summations of the style of mid-century musical composition, representing a sort of central position in the musical spectrum.

Princeton can take some pride in having mounted three fine performances—even if the significance of the matter does not yet seem to have quite penetrated. Who knows, a hundred years from now, 1964 may be best remembered, at least in musical circles, for the sequence of events in Princeton. One feels that the modern musical flowering here is really beginning to produce a permanent fruitage.

Education Averts Drownings.
To the Editor of Town Topics: I have read the many letters that have come in regarding the tendency on Lake Carnegie and feel that we are not approaching this problem comprehensively. I feel very strongly about the potential danger which exists, not only because I have children and live on the shores of the lake, but also because many times I have taken part in the recovery of victims who have drowned in the lake.

In my opinion, as long as Lake Carnegie exists and children continue to be attracted to its shores, it is a tiresome as they are, there will always be the danger of drownings. Through education of the dangers associated with the lake both in winter and summer, as well as the difference between a rescue of a drowning victim, we can help minimize the number of victims the lake will claim.

Certainly enclosing the lake with a fence would be the ideal way to keep children away from the lake, but this would be far too costly, and certainly one could not expect the lake shore property owners to erect a fence to keep youths and my children from going to the shore of the lake, not to mention destroying the beauty of the lake. Setting up life saving stations at various points would certainly help but would be far too inadequate a protection unless they were manned and spaced 100 yards apart, and what would prevent children from removing the safety equipment?

Needless to say, the police are busy enough now without having to patrol the lake and in most instances would be quite useless in a rescue attempt unless they carried a boat along with them. To hire one, two or several people to patrol the lake would be a further expense, as the lake is several miles long and not visible from the road in many places.

Education is the answer. It is everyone's responsibility to educate themselves as well as their children to the dangers which exist near water and the different life saving methods which can be used in performing a successful life saving rescue. Children should not be forbidden to go near water, but rather should learn to respect it and know what to do in the event of an emergency.

Some will say one can't teach a four-year-old to respect water, and in part they are right, but through constant repetition and discussion, a child can be made aware of the potential danger which exists around water. The Red Cross has a film "Ice Rescue" which is instrumental in learning methods of rescue. This film has already been shown at several of the elementary schools this year and last.

The Red Cross in conjunction with the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad would be willing to show this film and give a demonstration and discussion, please contact the Red Cross Chapter or the Princeton First Aid Squad.

Ask yourself these questions:

Do you know the best method of performing an ice or water rescue?

Do you know what to do with a victim after you have gotten him out of the water?

Calling the Police, Rescue Squad, or rushing him to a hospital is not the answer; the chance of saving the victim depends on you.

A Glimpse of the Past.
To the Editor of Town Topics: There are numerous photographs in my custody at the University showing the old Ball building at various stages of its history, and I have examined them carefully. Originally it was a two-story edifice, light-colored, perhaps buff or cream. When it received a third story the building was apparently given a facing of red face-brick.

With a white cornice and dark green shutters, the building had character and interest. Even the addition of multicolored Art Nouveau tiles around the store fronts did not disfigure the building's homeliness, for they did not look bad on a dark red brick building.

My suggestion would be to remove the paint from the bricks, paint the cornice white again, and put the green shutters back on the third floor.

Cook "Unnecessarily Severe."
To the Editor of Town Topics: I think Mr. Edmund Cook is being unnecessarily severe when he accuses the University in his recent letter to your paper, of "no longer having an interest in preserving either the beautiful traditional architectural features of Princeton," as well as "entering into commercial endeavors for services previously provided by business men and women in the Borough."

The reason the University has had to apply for so many zoning variances over the past few years is because the Borough Zoning Map places all University land in these residential zones which permit only single-family or two-family dwellings. Thus, a variance of one kind or another is required every time the University wishes to build a new building (as a result of the $35 million Campaign) or new parking lot (as part of the laudable University program to free the campus of automobiles) even though the project in question may be completely unopposed by the University-owned property and no other private property owner is affected.

Mr. Cook is entitled to his opinion as to the architectural merit of the University's new buildings. But it is hard to see how either local business men, or the University, or the architect of Princeton, would be jeopardized by the Junior Faculty apartments on the lake shore, or the proposed administration building by the railroad station.

The University provides this community with unnumberable cultural, artistic, theatrical, literary and athletic amenities of them without charge, and most of them taken for granted. I often wonder what kind of town Princeton would become if the University suddenly disappeared from the Borough and the Township. For one thing, can we imagine what Nassau Street would look like if the south side were developed, from University

"Out of Dissent, Consent."

The Editor of Town Topics: It is regrettable that last week's report in TOWN TOPICS on PAIRH mentioned so much of the dissent about which there is disagreement within (and without) the organization and that, at the same time, a few issues it did report it reported somewhat inaccurately. The disagreement, however, at least to my knowledge, was not over whether a discriminatory act should be made public before an attempt at quiet persuasion, but whether when persuasion had failed, nothing further should be done or whether further action should be indefinitely postponed.

Unfortunately, this and other important issues have never been adequately discussed at any membership meeting I know of and even if they had been. I doubt whether such discussions would have adequately reflected the opinions of those for whom the organization was supposedly founded. In your report, Mrs. Alfred Kornegay, of 31 Race Street, was said to believe "that PAIRH has not succeeded in reaching Princeton's Negroes," particularly those who are unskilled and in the lower economic brackets." Mr. Frank Wells, on Birch Avenue, and now a newcomer to the organization, quoted statistics to support this viewpoint, and another writer in TOWN TOPICS two weeks ago, Mr. Arthur Lewis, made the same point.

The founders and leaders of PAIRH have devoted enormous energy, time and good will to their work, and all of us, Negro and white, should be grateful as indeed I am, to each and every one of them. But the job to be done, WITH the Negro and NOT FOR him, is still far from done. That PAIRH make an attempt and loving effort to bring into its confidence especially those people it was primarily founded to work with these Negro "business district" people, most of whom are

In their terms, shut up by whites in the area bounded by the present north side. The University is not inflexible. But as a "guiding force" to preserve Princeton as an outstanding community," I think it deserves credit, not criticism, for doing a pretty good job.

If PAIRH can reach these people, then dissent will become real consent, not the false assent of weariness and disillusionment. And then Princeton may no longer seem to its Negro citizens worse in many ways than Southern towns, in which at least the Negroes know where the white citizens stand.

(Mrs.) CARY T. PEEBLES
5 Greenview Avenue

[Editor's note: TOWN TOPICS always regret when space limitations prevent the discussion of complex issues in the depth which they deserve, and in fact the article to which Mrs. Peebles refers specifically stated that the presentation was over-simplified. Letters like Mrs. Peebles' and Mr. (Wells) are always warmly welcome, therefore, because they present new points of view and amplify and clarify what has already been said.]

Asks Negro Awareness.

To the Editor of Town Topics: I wish to correct the "oversimplified" explanation of my differences with the Princeton Association for Human Rights. My primary concern was not based on what your paper termed "action" on the "type" of Negro thinking represented... there is a great difference. The aims of PAIRH are very noble and indeed worthy of moral support of anyone interested in the Negro's struggle for first class citizenship...

The "advice" local Negro "spokesmen" are giving to us," we have heard so often in the past. Had some spoken not years ago, there would be little need for a local human rights organization in 1964... Communication between the races has been inadequate. Many "impressions" are based on wishful thinking and not direct contact with the Negro people. For this reason, we use much understanding and confidence in each other.

As a resident in the Witherspoon-John area, it is my feeling that PAIRH should be cognate with the more concerned Negro thinking within this neighborhood. For instance, many view with great apprehension the growing black top angle and the ever expanding "business district" in this area. I include also the "long "problems" affects and other... "problems" the planned housing additions will cause upon the residents in nearby areas... which certainly includes my own.

Obviously, this emotional physical change will "force" many more Negroes out of Princeton. This to me is the most pressing moral problem we have in our community. I am well aware that our housing "problem," employment "problem," and even educational "shortcomings" are most important. They are all real and serious. I ask, "How many more responsible Negro Princetonians will 'relocate' in our surrounding townships before we can expect responsible leadership action?"

Therefore, speaking as a Negro and a resident in this area of town, I feel the ordinary Negro should exercise his right and responsibility to "speak up"... now... No one (black or white) should generalize or overstate the plight of Princeton's Negroes. We must be made a keenly aware of these things specifically affecting the Negro community. When this has been done, the help of God is necessary that responsible and thoughtful action be taken, to applaud the many very wonderful people who are working so faithfully to make PAIRH a truly unique Princeton organization. Its worth will be determined as it more fully reflects the rightful aspirations of the Negro people. I too have a dream that one day God join all our freedom-loving people and say, "Thank you, God Almighty..." in free love.

FRANK WELLS
36 Birch Avenue

Thanks to Dr. Edmonds.

To the Editor of Town Topics: In the course of the current comment and discussion on the community's dog shelter requirements, it may be the situation of Dr. Russell S. Edmonds and the Lawrence Hospital for Animals are not fully understood and appreciated. For a number of years, Dr. Edmonds has housed the stray animals picked up in the Borough and Township and has done this primarily as a public service, inasmuch as his participation in the program has been carried on at some considerable financial sacrifice and personal inconvenience to him. Dr. Edmonds has found that he is unable to continue this service, and more than a year ago, asked the municipalities to relieve him of further responsibility. Since that time, Dr. Edmonds has willingly carried on the shelter function as a further accommodation to the community.

It is my hope that as we are moving toward a permanent, satisfactory solution to our shelter needs, Dr. Edmonds has made available his complete professional counsel and assistance to help the community reach the best and most economical solution to our problems and this guidance has already been very valuable.

The community owes Dr. Edmonds a vote of thanks.

Animal Shelter Feasible.

To the Editor of Town Topics: With regard to the community's responsibility to provide a shelter for animals, I would be remiss in not presenting several pertinent facts:

(1) For a number of years, the Lawrence Hospital for Animals has cooperated fully in supplying the needed shelter facilities for the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League. Their action in asking for review of the arrangements was not precipitous and was dictated by the essential facts that the space donated to the League was needed for other activities and that demands on their employees were inconsistent with the remuneration and actual needs of the situation.

(2) It is feasible for the Township and Borough to build a joint shelter near the sewage plant property and to automate it to operate at little or no extra expense. This shelter should be available to all additional animals in a contractual arrangement.

(3) Contractual wardens must have some humane feeling for animals or they would not be so much work. I take issue with the author of the letter who said, "It is an inescapable conclusion that contractual wardens are not in the business for humane reasons but to make money." A logical conclusion would be that physicians, clergymen, etc., are not devoting their time and efforts to their occupations other than to obtain money.

(4) I agree it would be preferable to have a locally operated shelter than to have Princeton officials travel to Somerville, State law requires dogs be kept for seven days prior to destruction or disposal in humane shelters or pounds. This gives interested animal owners time to reclaim their pets.

(5) I cannot agree with the inference made in letters previously published that medical research is not necessary, that dogs and other stray animals should preferably be put to sleep, killed, condemned to death, or gassed in a "humane manner" rather than devoted to medical research. In the absence of that research, no one physician, not one surgeon, not one veterinarian in the Princeton community would be able to successfully treat any patient with new improved methods of surgery and medicine.

Many folks who are "humane minded" suggest they be obtained from sources other than a shelter. When pressed further, they suggest that animals be bred and raised for this purpose. I would state categorically that the useless killing of any one animal in a "humane shelter" or pound when such animal could be used in a surgical technique or medical experiment is as inhumane as anything I can imagine.

In conclusion, I suggest all citizens of the Princeton community make their feelings known to Borough and Township officials, indicating they are for a combined shelter, they are for cooperation, but that much more, they are for medical research. They should suggest that in any contracts with municipalities or humane societies, a provision be made with established medical research institutions to obtain animals after they are declared stray or unwanted. In the long run, this provision will result in better and more humane medical and surgical care of animals and humans.

AN EYE FOR AN EYE: When you take the law in your own hands and commit murder you have to suffer the consequences, says Ben Herman (right) in defending the death penalty given Jack Ruby in a Dallas court. Jamie Ajamian concurs. For more comments on the Ruby verdict, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think the death penalty given Jack Ruby was too severe or not?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Ben Herman, Opusmus Road, Skillman, sophomore at B.M.I.: No. He shot Oswald right on the spot. He didn't have to do it — the law would have punished Oswald but he went ahead and took the law in his own hands. Now he has to suffer the consequences. It had to come. You couldn't have one being killed and not have the same punishment for the other.

Jamie Ajamian, Blawenburg Junior at B.M.I.: I don't think it was too severe. The penalty for murder is death. He murdered Oswald so I don't see why the sentence for Ruby should be any different than it would be for anyone else. I figured the verdict would be death. Nobody gets away with murder; why should this guy?

Harvey Cahm, 486 Ewing Street, architect for Fulmer & Bowers: I'm against the death penalty as a matter of principle but I don't think the verdict of the jury was too severe within the framework of the laws in Texas.

Mrs. Mitchell Brook, Old Georgetown Road, housewife: No, I don't feel it was too severe. Capital punishment is one of the laws which haven't been abolished by popular vote and, therefore, since he was found guilty of first degree murder the penalty was in accordance with the laws of the land.

Randy Krimm, Burlington, salesman for Kellogg's cereal: No, because I feel Ruby planned Oswald's death. He had to, of course. He knew he would be able to get in the jail, he waited and then walked up and shot him. Perhaps he may have been in a state of emotion but then most people are when things like this are committed. It was an exhibition of American justice. I think the eyes of the world were watching this trial very carefully; I don't think there was any alternative, truthfully.

Mrs. Kenneth Luck, Kingston, housewife: No, I don't believe in an eye for an eye. I wish there was something that could have been done to get it out so Ruby could have suffered more. This is a quick way of doing it. What he did was terrible.

Ronald Thayer, Westminster Choir College, sophomore: Yes. I frankly feel that the death penalty should be stricken out altogether, purely on religious and moral grounds. Perhaps, life imprisonment would have been a lot more logical in this case. I was not surprised at the sentence, though. I expected it.

Mrs. Robert Cuomo, Buckingham, Pa., antique shop owner: No, I don't think so. I feel it was just, much as it was tragic. I felt he deserved Oswald what he was asking for himself.

Julius Solomon, Millstone River Apartments, instructor, Princeton University: Yes, I do. I think he was obviously temporarily insane and I don't think someone obviously insane should be given the death penalty.

Miss Vivian Endicott, Westminster Choir College, sophomore: I don't believe in capital punishment under any circumstances, mainly out of religious convictions and partly because I just don't feel it works (I feel there is always a chance for rehabilitation) so I would feel any death penalty would be too severe. I also think the upheaval of public emotions played too great a part in this entire tragic situation — people were letting their emotions overcome their reason.

John Fambré, 60 Leigh Avenue, custodian: All things considered — yes. Considering the fact he shot Oswald, who supposedly shot President Kennedy, I think they could have been a little more lenient under the circumstances. I think by condemning Ruby, Dallas, is trying to remove, before the world, the stigma of having been the town where Kennedy was shot. And I think in this case Ruby has been used as a scapegoat.

Miss Marjorie Miller, student at Princeton Theological Seminary: No, I do not. I do think it is wrong to take a life for a life, in a sense, but I think in this particular case the sentence was justified. Also in this case so much public attention was focused on it. I think the public image of the United States was an important factor which had to be considered in the decision. The world was watching us and had it been a light sentence it would have reflected on us because the crime was so serious.

Homer Russell, 32 Wiggins Street, senior, Princeton University: I am a member of the university's architectural department. I just feel Belli did a poor job in handling the trial and I think it is irrelevant to discuss the verdict because it certainly isn't final; it will be appealed again and again. I was surprised at the sentence. It was not for the death penalty; I'm not in favor of capital punishment. I had the feeling all along if Ruby were given the death penalty, it would be to compensate for the inept justice in Dallas. In other words, I don't think Dallas was the right place to hold the trial. They were so conscious of what happened there I don't see how they could have been objective about it.

Mrs. Toni Thompson, Hopewell, secretary: The question that always enters my mind is, can anyone be sane and still kill someone? You have to be out of your mind to kill, but at the same time, the act of killing itself deserves the death penalty. Whether someone should be — yet murder for being insane — der like that deserves death. I can't resolve the two. I wasn't surprised at the penalty because I think they had to do this to get rid not only of their own guilt but if they hadn't, they would have been looked upon as sympathizing with Ruby. Dallas, too, was caught from both sides.

Richard Henry, 1903 Hall University senior: No. It's kind of a light question whether I was disturbed or what have you. As far as I'm concerned, it would be hard to prove he was out of his mind. I think the result of the trial showed that one expert can say one thing and another expert can say the opposite, both based on the same evidence. Goes to show that people don't always tell the truth.

IT'S THE LAW!

The federal law requires that every TV set manufactured after April 30, 1964 must have a UHF tuner in addition to the standard VHF tuner. The additional cost of UHF tuners is approximately $20.00 which you, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer, must pay. While there is a need and use for UHF in many parts of the country the Princeton area requires no such tuner to get complete TV coverage. ## SCIENCE In Princeton

SCIENTIST, BACK-STAGE
For University Physicists. In every major production, there's a man behind the scenes and in the lecture rooms of Princeton University's mammoth physics department, the man is Harold Waage. Reticent, quiet, a perfectionist who is aware of his own worth but is not overt about it, Mr. Waage does not in the least resemble what in fact he is a hurler of thunderbolts. To make a physics lecture graphic, a professor needs demonstrations. It is Mr. Waage's job to set up these demonstrations, but he goes much farther than mere arranging. He invents as well, and he not only invents, he wins prizes for his inventions in competitions.

What undergraduate could ever forget the laws of molecular motion after he has seen a shower of steel balls stream down into the lecture room from a trap-door 20 feet high in the ceiling?

Mr. Waage sends the steel balls down to bounce on a heavy steel plate, delicately balanced and covered with a lucite slab. The balls bounce back almost as high as the ceiling they came from, and this continual impinging makes the balanced steel plate move.

Students then predict the total pressure on the plate by calculating the amount of force produced by the number of impacts per second.

This particular show has been included in a manual of demonstrations selected from those used in college physics labs all over the country.

Times Change. Physics teaching has changed in the years since Mr. Waage attended the University of Minnesota and Rutgers, and even since he came to Princeton University in 1943. For example, professors used to concentrate on heat, sound or light demonstrations, but these are old hat today.

Radioactivity, quantum physics and electromagnetic waves—these are the subjects of physics lecture demonstrations in 1964. And of course, the transistor has nudged out the vacuum tube.

As an example of freshman physics demonstrations, take the Waage water parabola demonstrator. It won first prize last year in a competition sponsored by the American Institute of Physics. A pump similar to a vibrating aquarium pump except that it pumps water instead of air, sends out a pulsating stream of water. Actually, the water is coming out, not in a stream, but in invisible drops. Mr. Waage uses with the pump a type of stroboscopic electronic flash, synchronized with the pump in such a manner that the rapid flashes of light immobilize each separate drop. In this way, a student can study the parabolic motion of projectiles on a small scale.

Another First Prize: Another "first" went to Mr. Waage in 1959 for the device illustrated in the picture on this page. He uses pendulums and a "magic lantern" to illustrate two vibrations occurring simultaneously, one more rapid than the other. The pendulums produce the motions which are then projected as moving light spots on a screen.

He won still another prize—this one third place—for an open-air Alpha particle counter. It's a wire grid set only millimeters away from a small plate. Between the two, the operator sends 5,000 volts, which is almost enough—but not quite—to produce a spark. When a source of Alpha particles comes near the little counter, sparks are produced and by counting the Alpha particles.

The Central Scientific Company is now turning out Alpha particle counters and water parabola demonstrators and sending them to schools across the nation for the education of college freshmen. They could be used in high-school classes, equally well, Mr. Waage believes.

A precise title for Harold Waage is hard to come by. Physics lecture curator? or "Physics lecture demonstrator" is another, but "demonstrator" does not really convey the originality of thought that goes into Mr. Waage's inventions.

He sets up demonstrations with the help of a single assistant and builds his devices with the aid of the laboratory's machinery. Presently, of course, he works with the physics professor who may have some ideas of his own about demonstrating a particular law of mechanics or optics.

As a rule, the same apparatus is used year after year, but occasionally a professor may decide he wants something new, or he may ask Mr. Waage to obtain from storage some device which hasn't been used for years.

Although Mr. Waage's works mostly behind the scenes, he does not remain there. He works in the laboratory or lecture hall while the demonstration is going on, manipulating

FOUR LOSE LICENSES

Under N. J. Motor Laws, four Princeton motorists have had their licenses suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles, three under the Point System. They are Chandler Wentworth, 51, 42 Linden Lane, three months; Raymond Siber, Jr., 23, 190 Washington Road, and R. B. Dinsmore, 61, Lawrenceville Road, both two months. For speeding, David T. Demme, 38, Route 206, surrendered his license for 30 days.

TO VIEW NINE HOMES

In Open House Tour, The ninth biennial "Open House in Princeton" tour, sponsored by Mount Holyoke and Radcliffe alumnae, will be held from 12:30 to 5:30 on April 16. Mrs. L. B. Holland, president of the Radcliffe Club, is chairman, and Mrs. George F. Thomas, Holyoke Club president, is treasurer. Proceeds go to the scholarship funds of the two colleges.

Committee members include Mrs. Paul Orr, Mrs. Joseph W. Miller Jr., Mrs. Walter J. Kammann and Mrs. William E. Stewardson, selection of houses; Mrs. Henry R. Martin, publicity; and Mrs. Arthur Szathmari, brochure.

Also, Mrs. Werner Hollman and Miss Helen Crossley, mailing list; Miss Dorothea Collins, tickets; and Mrs. Joseph M. Lynch, hostesses.

CAMPAIGN SCHEDULED

By Wilson Alumnae, Miss Verna E. Bayles of Princeton is chairman of the Central New Jersey committee for the Wilson College fund drive.

Miss Isabelle Stouffer of Princeton and Mrs. Julian Blake of Rumson are division leaders.

The Central New Jersey campaign begins next Wednesday at a dinner at the Princeton Inn. Speakers are Dr. Paul S. Haven, Wilson president, and Wayne Burwell campaign director. The alumnae seek funds for a new science building for the college, founded in 1970.

Forty-seven alumnae in Mercer and neighboring counties enrolled in the campaign. From this area are: Mrs. John de Graat of Princeton and Pennington, team captains; Mrs. John F. Mason, Mrs. Charles T. Myers, Mrs. Anthony Luccarelli, Mrs. Albert Reb, Miss Jeanne M. Wright, Mrs. Lefferts Loetscher, Miss Miriam Brokaw, Miss Audrey Barnett and Mrs. John H. Marks, all of Princeton.

Mrs. Leslie W. Perrine, Cranbury; Mrs. F. Titus Up-

Rowdyway, Princeton; Miss Sherry A. Ridgway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ridgway of Plainsboro, to Ronald Palmquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Palmquist of Glenview, Ill. A June wedding is planned.

the machinery while the professor lectures. Many of these devices are complex in the extreme. High vacuum pumps for example, take several hours to prepare, and must be watched, their gauges read and their equilibrium maintained during the lecture.

This work is as much a hobby as a vocation, and in his quiet home at 17 Leavitt Lane, Mr. Waage pursues leisure activities not much different from what he does in the University's workshop.

For example, he has patented a computer device for an electronic organ which allows a given key to be true in pitch and not the usual "well-tempered" compromise; that is, F-sharp and G-flat are, with Mr. Waage's invention, two distinct tones.

In addition, Mr. Waage has participated in the University's summer sessions of training for high-school physics teachers, lecturing to them and showing his demonstrations. Equipment devised by the Physical Science Study Committee under the direction of Dr. Zacharias and used in the summer sessions is now in kit form, simplified so that it can be produced inexpensively and made available to teachers everywhere.

SPORTS In Princeton

NEW SEASON BEGINS

Spring Sports Are at Hand. Ferris Thomson's lacrosse team, faced with the need to rebuild its defense from the ground up, will be the first Princeton entry to go to the wire in the 1964 spring sports derby. The Tigers head into perennial hornet's nest when they go to College Park to take on Maryland Saturday. A week of baseball begins Monday at Clarke Field, which at this time of year can make the fans colder than if they were watching a hockey game in Baker Park. Eddie Donofrio's nine will open against New York University, and entertain New Hampshire, Temple, Colgate and Seton Hall over a four-day period starting Wednesday.

Later starts are scheduled for the other four teams, with John Conroy the only coach to take his players south.

MAN WITH A STRING: Tennis Coach John Conroy has reason to believe Princeton's record of 34 consecutive victories will be extended by his spring 1964 team.

A series of practice matches are scheduled under the Miami sun for the tennis team as it prepares to defend its 34-game winning streak.

Princeton is an odds-on favorite to repeat as Eastern Association champion, with Captain Herb Fitzgibbon leading a strong group of varsity holdovers bolstered by an unbeaten freshman team. The Tigers have had a stranglehold on tennis in this section of the country for the past three seasons, and the combination of Conroy's topflight coaching and solid material is likely to keep matters that way.

Golf Intercollegiates Here. A feature of the season will be the Eastern Intercollegiate Golf championships scheduled for Springfield on May 9, 10 and 11. Close to a score of colleges will enter, with Yale, the defending champion.

Two regattas on Carnegie constitute the crew's perennial meagre home schedule. One appearance is set for April 11 against Rutgers, the other will be against Yale and Cornell here on May 9 for the Carnegie Cup.

Ball Team Experienced. Light graduation losses give the baseball team hopes of finishing in first division again, although the Tigers are unlikely to do much better than last year's four-place tie. They have seven of the nine players who saw action as starters during most of last spring, needing to plug only two gaps in the outfield.

Roney Rosenberg, a right-hander who compiled a 4-2 record last year, and southpaw Jerry Skye (6-4), are the veterans on the pitching staff. The pick of the sophomores is Tom Scott, a right-hander with considerable promise.

Jack Singer and Judy Johnson, who shared the catching duties last spring, are both on hand again, although there is a possibility that Paul Schneider, High School alumnus, might grab the starting assignment in his sophomore year. If so, Singer could win an outfield berth if his hitting holds up.

Bill Bradley, who played first during the latter part of the 1963 season, has decided to forego the sport this year, leaving the job open to battle between Pete Riley and Vi-

Woolley. Sophomore Dan Adams figures to give senior Don Weeden, a run for the second base job.

Left Side Strong. The left side of the infield will be staffed by a pair of capable glove men in Joe Sisco and Wally Uhl at short and second. The latter is the first junior to captain a Princeton baseball team in a couple of decades.

Blake Stafford, who hits well off the base returned from last year's outfield, which also include Captain Don Fudge and Ray Madock. In addition to Jack Singer, candidates include Jeff Ross, Joe Luongo and Ray Madock.

The Tigers lack a truly standout pitcher and real power at the plate, or they might rank as a contender for the league championship, which they last won in 1953. There is a good chance, however, that they can finish among the top five in the ten-team circuit.

The 1964 schedule:

March 30, N.Y.U.; April 1, New Hampshire; 2, Temple; 3, Colgate; 4, Seton Hall; 9, Monmouth College; 15, Lafayette at Easton; 17, Cornell (*); 18, Villanova; 20, Rutgers; 24, Harvard at Cambridge; 25, Brown (*) at Providence; 29, Fordham.

May 2, Dartmouth (*); 5, Columbia (*) at New York; 7, Manhattan; 9, Yale (*); 13, Pennsylvania (*) at Philadelphia; 16, Navy (*); 20, Trenton State; 23, Army (*) at West Point; 29, Rider. June 6, Rutgers at New Brunswick; 13, Yale; 21, Yale at New Haven. —Eastern Intercollegiate League.

CAN TIGERS BE BEATEN?

Many Problems in Lacrosse. Ferris Thomson saw the Ivy League title wind up in New Haven the year the league became formal in 1956 and while he may not actually have vowed that it would never happen again, the fact remains that eight years later, it hasn't. This spring, however, the Tigers have a tremendous rebuilding job to do to prevent the Elis from breaking their long string of first-place finishes. The genial Tiger coach, who has no peer at getting the most out of his material, thinks the pre-season picture shows either Yale or Cornell may have the personnel to replace Princeton at the top of the ladder in 1964.

Defense is the problem, and lacrosse is identical with football, hockey, baseball and virtually every other team sport in finding defense the major asset when the going is toughest. Partially through choice, largely through loss by graduation, Thomson will rebuild this department of his forthcoming team completely.

His choice is to move his all-Ivy goalie, Robb Harrison, Battle Road resident, out of the nets and into a midfield position. Like many a top player developed by Thomson, Harrison had never played lacrosse before coming to Princeton.

Saphomore is the Pick. A goalie who showed extreme skill as a freshman last season figures to be good enough at the varsity level to replace Harrison. Thomson reports Graeme Flinders' potential has won him a starting assignment

Cornell-Princeton on TV
The final game of Princeton's 1964 football schedule will be televised from Palmer Stadium next fall. The Tigers will be seen in the regional NCAA telecast on November 21 when they play Cornell. It will be the first time that a game has been televised from Palmer Stadium. Princeton played Penn in October, 1959. The only other Ivy League game scheduled for TV next season is the Dartmouth-Harvard meeting at Cambridge on October 24. Princeton has concluded its season with Dartmouth each year for the past 15, but 1964 will bring a major change. The Tigers go to Hanover for the first time in history on October 10. Cornell then replacing Dartmouth as the final Palmer Stadium opponent.

In-praction action and the Tiger coach comments, "we can certainly use a Harrison's all-around ability to tip in his ball." "We rank up our ranks somewhere else."

The four top defensesmen of the 1963 Ivy champions have graduated, including All-Ivy center Art Hyland. Hyland is another example of Thomson's coaching skill: like Harrison, he never played lacrosse before coming here, yet in less than three years ranked as one of the top players in the league.

Midfielder Bryce Chase, one-time Princeton resident and PHS alumnus, has graduated, as has Tuck Henry, named to last year's All-American Team. Up front Eric Dreher and Bob Kent, who paced the attack in lacrosse, are among the missing. Captain Jim Haws and another senior, Jim Okie, are the principal assets around whom the offense will be built.

As has been the case since Thomson arrived on the scene nearly 15 years ago, the Tigers will play some of the nation's toughest teams before opening the Ivy season. They'll be at College Park Saturday, where Maryland will aim for revenge for the 15-0 defeat it took home last spring. Johns Hopkins will be here next Saturday, April 4, the Tigers' home opener, with Navy on tap at Annapolis the following week.

The Ivy schedule favors the Tigers in that both the Cornell and Yale games are at home. Brown, will join the league for the first time this spring, leaving Cornell as the only Ivy college with no lacrosse team. The schedule: Mar. 27, Maryland at College Park.

Apr. 4, Johns Hopkins 11, Nassau 16, Cornell 16, 22 Brown 21, at Providence; 29, Pennsylvania 0, May 2, Harvard 0, Princeton 9, Yale 13, Rutgers at New Brunswick; 16, Dartmouth 1 at Hanover; 23, Army. —denotes Ivy League games.

REGULAR PLAY ENDS
In YMCA Industrial League. The final games of the regular season in the YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball 11 League were played last week at the Princeton High gymnasium. There were no changes from the previous standings.

Western Electric defeated Princeton Hospital, 71-51, to maintain its third-place tie with Astro A. Astro A, in turn, refused to give ground as it recorded an easy 75-38 triumph over RCA.

In the playoffs among the four top teams new underdog, a flip of the coin was used to decide the pairings. The result matched American Cyanamid with Astro A and Western Electric with Educational Testing Service.

The final standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cyanamid	12	0	1.000
ETS	9	3	.750
Astro A	7	5	.583
W. Electric	7	5	.583

Sometimes on Sunday
For the first time in the modern era of athletics at Princeton, the Tiger basketball team will play Yale at New Haven after the two teams meet here in the annual reunion game. Intriguingly enough, the game is set for Sunday, June 21. The Sabbath scheduling does not actually shatter precedent completely — Princeton athletes have competed in golf, tennis and squash intercollegiate on Sunday in the past. It is, however, the first time that a major team sport has been arranged for a Sunday.

Top-level administration officials at both universities were consulted before the contest was planned as the climax to Yale's three-day reunion weekend. Hopes are that the more liberal atmosphere will make possible the playing of games rarely allowed Saturday the following day, if either was postponed or cancellation, as has so often been the case in the past.

members of the league may attend if they wish. Important aspects of the league will be discussed.

MRS. CONSTABLE WINS
In Squash-Racquets, Mr. W. Pepper Constable was the winner in the Women's Squash-Racquets Association Tournament last week at the Pretty Brook Tennis Club. Mrs. Bayard Stockton 3d was runner-up.

In the consolation finals, Mrs. Douglas Corlette was the winner, with Mrs. W. Hollister. The runner-up, The Hotter Cup for improvement went to Mrs. Oakes Ames. Mrs. Simpson Hulme has been named president of the association for next year. Mrs. James Thornton will be secretary and Mrs. Aubrey Huston, treasurer.

BOWLING NOTES
Joe Baldino bowls a 608. In the Princeton Three-Man Classic League, Joe Baldino last week rolled a three-game total of 608, a new high for the league. Baldino's 608 came on single game scores of 166, 267 and 233. Second in scoring for the week was Frank Delnesso with games of 155, 196 and 488 for a 619 total. Others in the Three-Man League with individual games of 200 or better: Ernie Hunt, 213; Bob Ceraso and Frank Maddalon, both with 212's; Vic Wyszynski, 207; and Joe Trani and Bill Dumble, 200's.

Colonial Restaurant maintains a strong lead in the league's standings with 57½ wins. Johnson Electric is second with 44. Turrey Motors third with 38½.

Thorne Pharmacy leads the Nassau League by two games after last week's play. Thorne has racked up 34 wins to 32 losses for Tiger Garage and Nassau Delicatessen.

PHS NINE STRONGER

But Lacks Pitching. "If we can get one more good pitcher, we'll be in good shape," said Princeton High coach Harry Zoll in an early appraisal of his 1964 squad. "You can't have one boy pitching 19 games," he added, although he sounded as if he were intrigued with the possibility.

There are two more "ifs" on Harry's list of hopes. "If we could find a good third baseman and a pair of outfielders who could hit .300 . . ." He didn't finish but the impression he left was that if these were forthcoming, too, then the Little Tigers would be in a position to challenge the Yankees.

CARRIES PITCHING BURDEN: As the only member of the Princeton High School baseball team who has had experience pitching, Richard Vamacka will be called on to do the bulk of the hurrying for the Little Tigers this spring. The 6-2, 190-pound senior was 2-0 last year.

As it is, Zoll's eighth year as head coach should result in one of his better seasons. The former Ursinus College pitcher pins his hopes for improving on last spring's 10-9 record on the return of a solid nucleus comprised of five returning lettermen. His team will play an identical 19-game schedule this year, opening at home next Friday, April 3, against Cathedral.

Except for third base, the infield returns intact. It is led by Captain Jim Case, at first; Ken Ward, second base; and Dave Nuni, short. All started every game last year and each should exhibit the benefit of a year's experience. Ward is a junior.

Walstad back. Another position where PHS will be strong is behind the plate. Here Paul Walstad, a junior and one of the leading hitters for the Blue and White, is expected to enjoy another fine year. In fact, Walstad may already be the leading backstop in the county.

But the key to PHS' fortunes will lie in its pitching. If it is true, as Zoll repeatedly points out, that pitching is 80 percent in high school ball, then, percentage-wise the Little Tigers' mound staff is in short supply. At the moment, it consists of one tested pitcher, Rich Vamacka.

Vamacka came on strong last year at the end of the season, winning the final two games for PHS. He pitched the Little Tigers to a 1-0 decision over a good Somerville team and then wound up the season with a 2-1 victory over Hamilton in 12 innings. He is a southpaw.

In order to strengthen his mound staff, Zoll is looking at everybody who can throw hard. Among the candidates are Howard Rifkin, Chris Fisher, Fred Campbell, Ron Pulling and freshmen Tom Wood and Kurt Mitchell. Wood, son of the PHS football coach Dick Wood, is big for his age, while Mitchell is reportedly a good hitter. Fisher pitched for the freshman team in '63.

Must Rebuild Outfield. The big hole is the outfield. Zoll's problem of finding replacements were compounded by the unexpected loss of letterman Richard Gialella. Though only a sophomore and somewhat small, Gialella had a natural ability for the game and soon earned a starting assignment. He reentered the Steinert school system this fall.

Candidates for the three vacant positions are seniors Jeff Lowe, Ed Windbrecht, Ron Montague and sophomore Lou Balestrieri. Balestrieri saw limited action last year as a freshman at third base. Montague also catches and can play third.

Summing up, Zoll reported the team was in better shape now than at the corresponding time last spring. Said he should be able to find one good outfielder for centerfield. If we get some pitching and some more outfielders, we shouldn't have too bad a season."

EDUCATION

Your children deserve the benefits of a higher education. In today's world they may be penalized by not having the opportunity.

If you count on their ability to win a scholarship, it might be surprising to know that only 1 out of 5 students secures a scholarship and the average benefit is less than $300. a year. College and university costs are many times that amount.

Right now is the time to shape a savings program to pay the costs of advanced education for your children. A program based on average college and university costs starts right here at your personal service bank. SEASON OPENS SATURDAY
For PHS Lacrosse Club. The first full season's schedule for the Princeton High School lacrosse club, now in its second year, will start Saturday. The Little Tigers will open against the Maplewood High School lacrosse club at Maplewood.

The following Saturday, PHS will open at home opposite Montclair High School in the second contest of a 16-game schedule. All home games will be played at the Grover Park Field, located at the Princeton Shopping Center. There is no admission.

Although still a young and untested squad, the PHS team should win at least half its games this spring, according to a consensus of the players. From last year's initial team, six lettermen return. They are this season's co-captains, Sam Stewart and Mike Hawk; Richard Stewart, Sam's younger brother; Warren Elmer, Spencer Willard and Peter Bol.

In addition, the team has been strengthened by the appearance of two transfer students: David Van Ness, formerly a student at Proctor Academy, N. H., and Bob Chenick of Hun School who have had previous experience in the sport. Van Ness is probably the outstanding player on the team.

From among the 35 members of his squad, coach Robert Arbergast will probably field a starting team of Van Ness and the Stewart brothers, married; Elmer, Chenick and Harvey Hammond, attack; Hawk and George Markuson.

They Almost Stayed Home
A Princeton fencing team which almost bypassed the NCAA Tournament because of previous unimpressive showings last week-end became the national intercollegiate champion in the sport. It was the Tigers' first team victory at the NCAA level since the 1940s.

As late as Tuesday last week, Coach Stan Sieja was uncertain whether to enter his three-man team in the national tournament at Harvard. Princeton had finished second in the Ivy League and seventh in the Easterns.

At Cambridge, however, the team of Captain Bill Hicks, Bob White and John O'Sullivan scored a major upset as they outpointed defending champion Navy and highly-regarded Columbia and NYU. Hicks won 32 of 33 bouts with the foil and earned the designation of fencer of the year.

Clear tribute to Sieja's coaching ability is reflected in the fact that neither Hicks nor White had ever fenced before coming to Princeton.

(Left) Miss Amanda Maugham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Maugham of 65 Wilson Road, is one of seven Sarah Lawrence College students spending a working vacation in northern Louisiana and New Orleans. The unit is studying sociological and political aspects of the south.

Princetonians serving on the new Commission for the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963 are Commissioner of Education Frederick M. Raabinger of 55 Battle Road, named chairman, and Mrs. Edward J. Katzenbach of 2 Stanworth Lane, president of the State Board of Education. The Commission will process applications for grants of Federal funds towards undergraduate institutions and public community colleges.

LACROSSE BOOSTER: The drive to include the sport at Princeton High School began a year ago when Spencer Willard entered the school. As a former resident of Baltimore, where the sport flourishes, Willard was dismayed to discover lacrosse was not played here at the high school level.

With a big assist from Ferris Thomsen, Princeton lacrosse coach, Willard succeeded in forming a club and playing an abbreviated schedule. This year he has had all the cooperation he could hope for. Besides continued assistance from Thomsen, Ernie Dreher, a graduate student at the University and high scorer on the Tiger squad last spring, has come often to give advice and encouragement.

John Callard, an All-American in his junior year at the University, has been out to help, too. Willard predicts that the sport's popularity will increase steadily. At the present, in addition to PHS, there are only three other high schools in the state playing lacrosse. All are located in northern New Jersey.

THIS 11 to Play 9

Starting this fall, Princeton High School will compete in all sports as a member of the Central Jersey Group IV division. Previously, PHS had been classified as a Group III school. This change is reflected in the 1964 football schedule released by Athletic Director Joseph Jorgoli. In increasing the number of games from eight to nine, three new teams have been added and two—North Plainfield and Cherry Hill—dropped.

The newcomers are Thomas Jefferson High School in Madison and Notre Dame. The November 14 meeting with Notre Dame should mark the beginning of a natural rivalry between the schools which were separated only by a few miles.

The 1964 schedule: Sept. 26, Hanon, away; Oct. 3, Thomas Jefferson, away; 10, Hunterdon Central, away; 17, Trenton 24, away; 31, Somerville, away; Nov. 7, Steinert, away; 14, Notre Dame; 21, Madison.

ONE MORE LOOK: Princeton's legion of Bradley fans will have one more chance to watch the Tigers' All-American in action this season. He'll play in the East-West All-Star game at Cincinnati Saturday afternoon: Channel 11, 2:30.

BRADLEY TO WEST COAST
Playing in Two More Games. Selected as one of 36 college players to try out next week for the United States Olympic Basketball Team, Bill Bradley will play in two exhibition games as part of the program leading up to the Olympics.

Named to the Red Squad, he will be in action in the Los Angeles Arena Thursday night against UCLA, 1964 NCAA champion. On Saturday, in a televised East-West All-Star game from Cincinnati, he can be seen over Channel 11 at 3:30.

The ten-man Red squad scheduled to face UCLA has been loaded with most of the nation's top players. In addition to Bradley, the personnel includes such standouts as Jeff Mullins of Duke, Walt Jones of Villanova, Howard Komives of Bowling Green, Cazzie Russell of Michigan, Dave Stallworth of Wichita and Mel Counts of Oregon State.

Gary Brads of Ohio State has also been named to the Reds, but there is a question over his plans to try out for the Olympic team. If he remains adamant, a replacement will be named for him.

Following the East-West game at Cincinnati, Bradley will go to St. John's University, Jamaica, next weekend to take part in the Olympic tryouts from Thursday through Saturday. AAU players and representatives of the armed forces will also be screened, with no more than 12 players chosen to make the final trip.

Bradley's election to the captaincy at Princeton is a foregone conclusion but no announcement will be made until the annual dinner for the Tiger basketball team is held. It will take place after the spring vacation which begins Saturday.

TOWNSHIP WINS AGAIN
Trips Borough, 75-65. Behind the shooting of Engineer Frank Quimby and Patrolman Frank Boccanfuso the Township "Blues" defeated the Borough "Tuesday" evening at the Valley Road School gym.

nasium for the second time in as many meetings. The score of the annual municipal basketball game was 75 to 65.

Considering the rustiness of the participants, the contest was hard-fought and well-played throughout. Much of the credit for this high level of play belongs to referees Van Skillman and Frank Baldino, who called every infraction—and there were many—and saw that every point was honestly earned. Some 100 spectators, most of them wives and children of the players, witnessed the encounter.

Starting for the Borough were Patrolman Harry Kahn, team captain; Detective Robert McAvoy, Patrolman Tom and Ralph Procaccio and Gil Fisher, a member of the Borough Street Department. Fisher, who excelled in basketball at Princeton High where he graduated in 1962, started slowly but he rarely missed thereafter, connecting on 10 field goals and six free throws for a game high 26 points.

The Township countered with starters Sergeant Jack Patrono, team captain; Patrolman Frank Cox, Frank Boccanfuso and Howard Sweeney, and Engineer Frank Quimby. Quimby and Boccanfuso combined for 33 points to lead the Township.

Cox Opens Scoring. Cox got the game's first two points on a layup. Quimby followed with two 15-footers from the center and Patrono hit on a long one from the side to give the Township a 10-3 lead.

However, three baskets by Fisher, one by Kahn and another by Sergeant Jim Koutler enabled the Borough to narrow the margin to 14-13 at the end of the quarter. At the start of the second period John Bello connected with a long 30-footer for his only basket to put the Blues in front, 15-14. It was short-lived, though, as the Township bounced right back and the Blues never trailed again.

From a 39-32 halftime deficit, the Borough fought back to 51-47 at the three-quarter mark. But early in the final period the victors spurred to a 61-49 margin and although the flagging Blues were able to narrow that to 69-63 with less than two minutes to go, they could come no closer.

For those who keep track of the scoring, it went this way for the Borough: Kahn 11, Fisher 26, Kopliner 9, McAvonia 8, Ralph Procaccio 4, John Bello 3, and Pete McCroha and Tom Procaccio 2. For the Township: Quimby 20, Boccanfuso 18, Petrone 8, Cox, Sweeney and Henry 7, Prior 6, Mike Kopliner 2, Lisi, Dilorio, John Hammond and Jim Doherty, Dot Control Officer, did not score.

KIWANIS OFFERS LOANS
For College Bound. The Kiwanis Club of Princeton is offering loans to high school seniors from the greater Princeton area for the third year. The club hopes to increase each loan to $300 and the total over the four-year period to $1,200.

No interest is charged until graduation from college, and no principal repayment is due until a full year after graduation, with six years allowed for full repayment. Applications may be obtained from Dr. Russell S. Edmunds, R.D. 3, Princeton, chairman of the Student Loan Committee.

Other members of the committee are Harold E. Miller, Stephen P. Fritz, and Morton Kline, all from Kiwanis; and Bernard Kilgore and Dr. Glen R. Simmons, representing the Princeton community. The committee will make the selections for loans based on need, desire for a college education and a belief in the virtue of self-help.

Students with modest academic ability are eligible if they demonstrate an earnest desire for self-improvement through a college education. Those attending any public, private or parochial school and living in the greater Princeton area may apply for a loan.

Five students have been helped through Kiwanis loans over the past two years. Funds are raised through the club's film "Adventure Series" in the fall.

STUDENTS INVITED
To Mount Hoboken Reception. High school girls from 21 schools in the Princeton-Trenton area have been invited to a reception Tuesday by the Mount Hoboken College Alumnae Club. The reception will be held at 7:45 in the staff lounge of Firestone Library.

Present undergraduates will speak to the group, and a rotor film strip, "Mount Hoboken College: A Community of Scholars," will be shown. Girls who have not been invited through their guidance director.

MUSIC In Princeton

GEORGE LYNN APPOINTED
By Choir College. Dr. George Lynn of Princeton Junction has been appointed music director of Westminster Choir College. Dr. Lee Bristol Jr., president, has announced. He succeeds Warren Martin.

Dr. Lynn, an alumnus of the college, has served as professor of conducting and director of the Symphonic Choir since last September. He is also TOWN TOPICS' music critic. Mr. Martin has requested and received a year's sabbatical to devote himself to composing.

"We are fortunate," Dr. Bristol said, "to have been able to secure the services of George Lynn as Westminster's music director, the college's highest musical post. Composer and conductor, he is also a distinguished teacher and church musician."

Dr. Lynn was associate con-

APPOINTED: Dr. George Lynn has been named to the position of music director at Westminster Choir College. He is a resident of Princeton Junction.

ductor of the Westminster Choir from 1945 to 1950. He taught in the music and humanities departments of the University of Colorado and served as guest conductor of the Denver Symphony.

His list of compositions includes two operas, a symphonic suite, choral compositions, a concerto for piano and strings, hymn settings and organ works.

Dr. Lynn's first symphony was given its premiere in Denver earlier this month by the Denver Symphony. His setting of Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" for baritone solo, chorus and orchestra was performed by the Philadelphia Orchestra three times last October. He is currently preparing the Symphonic Choir for performances of the Verdi Requiem to be given with the Philadelphia Orchestra at Lincoln Center in honor of the opening of the New York World's Fair.

MOZART FEATURED

In Opera Workshop, The Princeton Opera Association will present a recital Tuesday at 8:30 in the First Presbyterian Church. The public is invited to the free program.

Mozart will be featured on the program with two scenes from "Marriage of Figaro," including the third act sextette, and two scenes from the first act of "Così Fan Tutte." Also to be included are the garden scene from "Faust," the scene with Rudolfo and Mimi from the first act of "La Bohème," and scenes from Halevy's "La Juive" and Verdi's "Don Carlos."

Igor Chichagov, the association's artistic director, has directed the second workshop. A third workshop is in the planning stage for the middle of May, for a ten-week period. Emphasis is on dramatic content rather than the vocal as-

Critics Say "Yes"

"What a revelation it was, to hear high school youngsters beautifully singing music that so many of their elders find incomprehensible!"

James Felton, music critic of the Philadelphia "Bulletin," described in these words the demonstration performance of the Princeton High School Choir before the audience at the Music Educators National Conference in Philadelphia.

Mr. Felton also cited Milton Babbitt, Princeton composer, who discussed the twelve-tone music that the high school singers then illustrated.

"Credit must go," concluded Mr. Felton, "to director Thomas Hishbush who demonstrated to the educators that children can be brought up to appreciate the peculiar, if sometimes alien-seeming, beauties of twelve-tone music."

The presentation by Mr. Babbitt and the choir was the only Conference event reviewed by the critic.

pects, and each participant rehearses roles in two to five scenes.

Those interested in registering for the May workshop should call Mrs. Suzanne Weaver, 924-4284; Mrs. Virginia Schley, 921-2148; or Mrs. Mary Eerooy, 883-9709.

The singers who will appear Tuesday are Mary Lynn Bird, Noreen Barnes, Mariel Long, Virginia Cole, Mary Eerooy, Anne Hoffman, Lola Scott, Karen Simicak, Debbie Truxal, Virginia Baechals, Ruth Matern, John Counts, Jameison Gill, Robert Hartman, Robert Scheffer and Woodie Wacches. Mrs. Louise Rogers will be the accompanist.

MIRIAM MAKEBA COMING

In Alexander Hall Concert, Miriam Makeba, the South African singer, will make her first Princeton appearance Friday, April 10, in Alexander Hall. Her concert, sponsored by the Pan-African Students Organization, will mark the sixth anniversary of African Freedom Day.

Miss Makeba has toured this country with Harry Belafonte and the Chad Mitchell Trio, and has two record albums on sale currently. On television she has appeared with Ed Sullivan and David Susskind.

Tickets, priced at $2 and $3, are available at the University Store and Male's Book Shop. Seats are not reserved, although blocks of 14 will be set aside for theatre parties by calling 921-7339 by April 1.

TR LAND AS AN INVESTMENT? WHY?

1. Land is protection from inflation.
2. Land allows you a capital gains tax shelter.
3. Land is not stock that can be watered.
4. For yourself now, for your children in the future.
5. In many cases, the land we have listed for sale can be purchased with 15% to 30% down to a qualified buyer. If the land increases 100% in value with a 30% cash investment, there is a 333% profit. We estimate that land values around Princeton have risen 20% per year for the last five years. Figure this out.

We invite you to come in today to discuss land use and prices; or just call or write for a copy of a recent full page ad showing choice listings & prices.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

All rights reserved. W. P. Dickinson & Co., Inc., New York.

ELECTRICAL HEATING ON THE INCREASE

Number Of Homes Way Ahead of Brightest Predictions

"Until three years ago, the bulk of my work was wiring houses, then a large part of the public, as well as myself, discovered total electrical home heating.

"There's nothing to compare with it, really, and now I specialize pretty much in the installation of electrical heating systems."

And, added the esteemed local electrical contractor, "Remember I know first-hand because I'm a satisfied user. "Just one of over 1.6 million families in the country, though. And that's an interesting thing in itself.

"You see, electrical heating really spurred to popularity about three years ago, at about the time I chose it for my own home. The best estimate made a couple of years back was that by the end of 1962 there would be 1.35 million electrically heated homes in the country, but as you see actual usage is better than a quarter of a million more.

"No. That figure isn't taking into account the apartment houses in some cities that are also electrically heated, or the commercial use of electricity as fuel."

Reasons cited for the increasing popularity of electrical heating are:

- "Virtually no maintenance problems ever . . . and the system is expected to last the life of the house."
- "Lower installation costs than older methods of heating."
- "Efficient use of fuel when construction and insulation standards are adhered to. No heat wasted 'up the chimney.'"
- "Room-by-room temperature choice with individual room thermostats."
- "Maximum comfort, draft-free heating."
- "Greater freedom in room decoration . . . no bulky installations needed."
- "No space wasted on equipment or bulky fuel storage."
- "Electrical heat is instantly available."

"By the way," is the contractor's parting shot, "do you know what the latest estimate is? They figure that in another five years there will be six million homes in the country heated by electricity."

"Frustrating," says a spokesman for the Edison Electrical Institutes' Live Better Electrically Program.

"You know the frustrations an old-fashioned wiring system can create if you've lived in a house that is 20 — even only 15 years old. Good enough in its time, an old-fashioned wiring installation cannot deliver the horsepower needed for today's electrical appliances and lighting.

"As a result, the family has had to forego many of those things which contribute to good living."

Not so, is a Medallion Home, the report concludes.

UP-DATE... ANTIQUE HEATING NOW!

This elegant relic reminds us of bygone days. Be elegant, and better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

"There, the wiring is planned to provide plenty of horsepower for both today's and tomorrow's electrical requirements."

Further, in order to qualify for a Gold Medallion, electricity must be the sole source of heating fuel, putting it in the "home-of-tomorrow-today" category since the temperature of each room can be individually regulated.

QUESTION BOX

Q. I know that "Gold Medallion" means an electrically heated home but is there an actual, tangible medallion and if so, how big is it and where is it placed?

A. The medallion is attested to in two forms. The first is visible to all who come to the door when incorporated (as many are) into a door knocker, mounted above the doorbell, or attached ornamentally to the house number.

Owners whose houses meet the requirements also get a certificate, which it is recommended be kept right with the deed.

Q. How much of a job is it to put in the amount of insulation recommended in converting to electrical heat?

A. How adequate is your present insulation? You see, it's all pretty relative. The more you already have, the less you'll need — and vice versa. A qualified contractor will be glad to talk it over with you free of charge.

Q. Where do I get information on what electrical heating would cost me?

A. Either an electrical contractor or your utility company can give you a close — sometimes even guaranteed — estimate.
